BACK TO HOUSE OF CORRECTION

Stanislaw Jaskolka's Wife Says He Is Of No Use To Her

Man Granted Extension of Time to Pay Fine, Declared Defaulted

Soldiers Arraigned for Drunkenness—Other Cases in the Police Court

Stanislaw Jaskolka, on probation from the house of correction, was sent back to that institution this morning in the police court, when his wife, the mother of his five children, declared that he is no use to her, and that she didn't care what was done with him. Jaskolka was sentenced to serve six months in jail, on charges of non-support. Being released on "pro," his wife says, he helped her at first, but after a week relapsed into his old habits. He was arrested yesterday on a capias. Judge Enright ordered the default of Jones M. Swoxford recorded, when the (Continued to Page Eleven)

CITY COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

Approves Contract With Boston Firm for Strengthening of Central Bridge

Votes to Establish License Fee of $2 Per Year for Lodging Houses

Final formalities preparatory to renewing work on the Central bridge were completed by the municipal council at its meeting this morning when it gave approval to a contract entered into by Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy and the Engineering Service & Construction Co. of Boston for the strengthening and construction of the bridge at a sum not to exceed $54,740. Mr. Murphy announced that the Boston firm would start work at once.

The council also voted to establish a license fee of $2 per year for lodging housekeepers at the request of the license commission. This is in accordance with a recently enacted state law which gives city councils the right to establish any fee it sees fit for this purpose, providing it does not exceed $2 per year. The new fee will become effective at the beginning of the licensing year, May 1.

Meeting in Detail

The meeting was called at 10:05. Mayor Thompson was absent and Commissioner Marchand presided.

A hearing was held on the petition of Kalzo Bros. for a garage license at Brookings and Amory streets and there was no opposition. Refused to Commissioner Salomon.

Hearings will be held on April 20 on the petitions of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. for pole locations in Bachman street, Parkview avenue and Jackley street and on the petition of the Lowell Electric Light corporation for a pole location in Bassett street.

A petition that Barnaby street be accepted was referred to Commissioner Murphy.

Hearings will be held on April 25 on the petitions of Panteleon J. Lévesque for a garage at 21 Smith

STATE WIDE MOVEMENT FOR SAFE ROADS

The Lowell chamber of commerce is co-operating with the state-wide movement for "Safe Roads" and with the local "Safety First Campaign" initiated by Redmond Welch, superintendent of the police department. The chamber has sent out publicity matter to all commercial organizations in Massachusetts, setting forth Mayor Perry D. Thompson's recent proclamation asking for the co-operation of the citizens of Lowell in keeping this city at the top of the list for safe driving as it was during the last three months.

In helping forward the local safety first campaign, which is to continue the rest of this year and up until April 14, the chamber makes the following appeal to all employers of paid drivers in the city. Figures show that many traffic accidents are the result of carelessness on the part of commercial drivers and this statement seeks their co-operation:

To All Employers Having Paid Drivers

Are you doing your share to reduce the automobile accident rate in Lowell? Do you demand that your drivers always exercise caution when operating your trucks or automobiles?

Did you ever explain to your men that the traffic rules are made for their protection and that they should therefore obey the rules for their own sake?

Did you ever point out to them how expensive it is to the company when accidents occur that cause damage to property and create the possibility of law suits?

Have you ever pictured to them a child crippled for life through an automobile accident that could have been avoided, or, to pain the picture more forcibly, have you made them think of that child as being one of their own?

Check over these questions and see how many you have complied with. Are you helping to make the streets of Lowell safer for your wife, children, relatives and friends, as well as the dear ones of the other fellow?

MANY COUSINS GIVE TESTIMONY

Spicy Testimony in Trial of McKearn Will Case in Superior Court

Asserted Deceased Threatened Suicide to End Relations With the Taylors

That Robert J. McKearn, whose will disposing of a $10,000 estate is being contested in the superior court, asserted previous to his death that he had been compelled to buy clothes for Mrs. Isabelle Taylor, the principal beneficiary, was testified to in the trial of the case today by Mrs. Mae M. Fiscus of Somerville, a cousin of the deceased. The witness said that the husband of Mrs. Taylor referred to her as "our wife," and that he had to "dress her like a queen," and that he did not dare to break off the relations with the family for fear of a suit for alienation of affections.

Mrs. Fiscus in opening her testimony told of a visit that she made to Lowell in an auto in company with her husband in October, 1919. She said that she saw McKearn when she was parking her car at the Middlesex street station, and that the deceased made a joking remark about her parking in the wrong place.

Not Getting Proper Care

The witness told of sitting in the car with McKearn for a considerable time while her husband went for lunch. She asserted that McKearn said that he was sick and that he was not getting proper care at the Taylor home where he was boarding. She said she asked him why he did not leave, and also if he had anything in common with Mrs. Taylor. She said that at first he did not answer, and that later he said "I don't."

The witness testified that McKearn told her that Mr. Taylor made him stock a store for him, that he had to buy shoes for the children, that the Taylors took all the money he could earn, and that he had to pay for everything used in the house.

Mrs. Fiscus said that she suggested Continued to Page Fifteen

DROP IN ASPHALTIC ROAD OIL PRICE

Asphaltic road oil has dropped more than five cents per gallon in the past year and the city of Lowell will save more than $5,000 on its supply for the present season, according to the bids which were opened at the office of the purchasing agent this morning.

The lowest figure received today was $8.75 cents per gallon while a year ago the city awarded the contract for the season's supply to Alden Spears' Sons Co. for 13.92 cents per gallon.

The low bidders this year are Joseph E. Galvin of Boston and the Standard Oil Co. each of which submits a $8.75 bid.

The Alden Spears' bid is $8.93 cents per gallon. The American Oil Products Co. submitted a bid of 7.99 cents, t.o.b., or 10.40 cents if applied. The specifications call for the oil being applied. The Texas Oil Co.'s bid was 11 cents per gallon.

The specifications call for 140,000 gallons, more or less, of 45 to 65 per cent asphaltic road oil, to be delivered and applied to the direction of the commissioner of streets and highways.

The purchasing agent also opened bids this morning, on never castings, consisting of manhole frames, covers and steps, also catch basin frames and covers as required by the sewer department for the year 1921.

These, too, show a considerable decrease from last year's figure. The city paid nine cents a pound to the James P. Robinson Foundry Co., a year ago. Bids received this morning were as follows: City Iron Foundry, 8.9 cents; James P. Robinson Foundry Co. of Bristol, Conn., 9.50 cents per hundredweight; James P. Robinson Foundry Co., 5.75 cents per pound; the Monitors' Foundry, 8.50 cents per hundredweight; Clinton Iron Foundry, manholes, 4.4 cents per pound; catch basins, 4.5 cents per pound; and steps, 5.5 cents per pound; Doherty Bros., 1.75 cents per pound; and the Donnelly Iron Works, 5.48 cents per hundredweight for manholes, 57 for frames and $10 for steps.

TWO MEN CLAIM DOG OWNERSHIP

Harry E. Hunter and Harry A. Cady, both of Tyngsboro, were prepared to stage a legal battle for the possession of a Scotch collie dog, this morning, at the police court. Last night Hunter came to headquarters, claiming that his dog was in the possession of Cady. This morning Cady brought in the animal, which matched the description given by Hunter. But now came Cady, who averred and testified that he had the dog presented to him by his brother-in-law, a resident of Nashua, N. H., during the fall of 1919. Soon afterward, he declared, the canine vanished and returned to his abode only a few days ago. And now cometh Hunter, bringing with him a man who says he raised the dog, and another man who says he sold the animal to Hunter for $100. The argument raged through the morning, but as the dog made much of the Hunter family, and in view of the evidence of the man who says he raised the animal and that he could "tell him out of twenty," it was finally reached, whereby Hunter was granted possession of the animal.

PLANS TO PAVE THORNDIKE STREET

Thorndike street will receive first attention in Commissioner Murphy's paving program for the coming season and work will be started there next Monday morning. Paving is to be laid from Congress to Appleton street with a total yardage of $263 square yards.

The commissioner has not yet decided what street will come first in his macadamizing program, but the chances are that it will be First street.

Frances Boardman Rhymes For You About Some Features at the Zoo

A little visit to the zoo, my child, is a bulk of all the skinner's jokes! This now in store for you. First, note how bird is called the pelican—superior all the long wear the major portion, perhaps, to man, in that he carries of their half—so the effect is much storage-space attached directly to the same as summer furs on sister's face. The public seems inclined to frame. And here's the tiger in his cell; laugh on first beholding the giraffe; then named him for the Princeton and teach to tell he is bizarre. (I yell the way his stripes join at the wonder where his consorts are!) Then, seems exceeds the needle woman's list of all the hangups. I wish him—no doubt he'd change it if he could just as glad that he's content. And yet, again, he's what provokes the Antipodes!

"Black K. K. K." Plans Reprisals

DALLAS, Tex., April 5.—Anonymous letters were received by local newspapers and the sheriff of Dallas county, today, stating that an organization of negroes had been formed here under the name of the "Black K. K. K." to retaliate for the whipping and branding of Alex Johnson, negro bell boy, last Friday night. The letter threatens death to any white men who attempt to molest negroes. Sheriff Harston said he did not regard the letter seriously. Johnson was taken into the country Friday night, severely whipped and the letters K. K. K. branded on his forehead with silver nitrate after charges had been filed against him in a local court involving relations with a white woman.

Loss of Weight A Danger Signal Do Not Be Discouraged But Look for the Cause and Cor- rect It

When you are losing strength and weight and feel badly all over, when your stomach rebels, sleep is broken and your color fades—when you have all or any of these symptoms you need a tonic for the blood. You require a medicine that will benefit the whole system. The blood reaches every part of the body and when it is built up the whole system benefits.

Discouraged men and women will read the story of Mrs. Willard Poole, of No. 137-A Belmont street, Everett, Mass., printable if they will only follow the course of treatment which she recommends.

"When I was a young girl," says Mrs. Poole, "I suffered a rapid decline in health due to overstudy and lack of outdoor exercise, became very thin and frail and my mother worried a great deal over my condition.

Her problem, apparently, was constant, almost constantly from headache and a dull pain across my temples. I was losing weight daily and it seemed as though nothing would build me up.

"One day a friend urged my mother to give me Dr. Williams' Pink Pills so mother bought a box. Within a short time after I began the treatment I began to feel better. Slowly the color returned to my cheeks. My appetite improved and as my strength and weight returned the headache and dull spells disappeared. This last spring I felt a little run-down so I tried the remedy again and found it just as good a tonic today as when my mother gave it to me. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Write today to Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the free booklet "Building Up the Blood." Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, sixty cents per box—Adv.

URGE PROMPT ACTION TO AVERT COAL PERIL

(Special to The Sun)
By H. B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The next big problem to be tackled by the Harding administration, following the railroads, is that of coal.

In the opinion of many of Harding's advisers, including Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, the coal problem is second only to that of the railroads and is as direct a barrier to a healthful condition of industry.

Necessity for early action with respect to coal is emphasized by the strike of British miners.

"A strike in the British coal industry," one member of the cabinet declared today, "means an immediate increase in the demand for American coal for export."

The reaction from an increased export demand is an immediately stimulated market in this country, due to panic buyers, who fear both higher prices and shortages in supply.

These two inducements are certain to send prices up and open the door to a resumption of profiteering and of shortages, either real or manipulated, unless proper precautions are taken."

One proposal to be urged energetically on the administration from within the official family will be the allowance of differentials, either in mine prices or in railroad rates, to large users of coal who arrange to accept and store coal during the periods when the demand on the mines is lowest.

"One of the chief difficulties of the coal problem," this official says, "is the excessive character of production. The average miner works, normally, only about 250 days a year. The mines produce only as they have orders or can get cars."

If production could be spread out equally throughout the year, by the storage of coal in seasons of slack demand, both the coal production and the transportation difficulties would be immensely relieved.

"Pitifully coal deteriorates rapidly above ground, but may be kept in perfect condition if stored under water.

"It would not be an expensive proposition for many of the largest users of coal, particularly the metallurgical industries, to provide water storage tanks for large amounts of coal. That—or some similar solution—must be adopted to stabilize production throughout the year and equalize the load on the railroads.

"Some provision must be made, of course, to equalize the cost of coal to the industry that stores it with the one that receives it only as it can be used. That, I believe, might properly be taken care of by a differential in the freight rate—coal going into storage moving at a rate sufficiently lower than shipments for current use to offset the expense involved by storage.

"Our coal problem today is second only to that of transportation, with which it is complicated and virtually a part.

"If this country is to get firmly on its feet again economically, if industry is to be strengthened, we have got to burn our way out of the weeds, with both of them, and that quickly."

GENTLE COWBOYS

Year Goes By Without One Rustler Hanging

HELENA, Mont., April 5.—Not a single rustler was hanged in the past year. But that was not because there were no cattle or horses. The methods of the cowboys have changed.

E. C. Lawler, head of state stock inspectors, says thefts of cattle amounted to $1,777,000, valued at $16,552.

Inspectors rounded up and returned 1,227 head and obtained 33 convictions.

LOCAL OFFICERS MUST ENFORCE PROHIBITION

ALBANY, N. Y., April 5.—Gov. Miller yesterday signed a bill placing the enforcement of the federal prohibition amendment squarely up to the local police officers.

The governor took this action on hearing on the measures.

FOR IRISH RELIEF FUND

Lowell Campaign Committee

Arranges for Drive to Raise $45,000 Here

The Lowell committee in charge of the Irish relief fund campaign held a well-attended meeting in Elks hall last evening and made considerable progress in arrangements for the drive to raise $45,000 here.

It was announced that the V.M.C. and Musicians' Union, who had planned to give a joint concert at the Opera House next Sunday, had relinquished claim to the date when it became known that former Senator Gore was coming to Lowell and these organizations agreed to hold their concert a week later. They were given a standing ovation at last evening's meeting.

James O'Sullivan, chairman of the Lowell committee, president, and Mrs. Helen V. Reilly was present in the capacity of honorary. Fred H. Reilly supervisor for northern Middlesex county, and Frank P. McNamee of the state executive committee gave detailed accounts of the meeting of that committee.

A committee consisting of Mr. O'Sullivan, Peter McKenna, Mr. McCarthy, Mr. Murphy and Owen A. Monahan was appointed to solicit the downtown business men. Committees on publicity, public speakers and the boxing carnival to be held in the near future were also appointed. Miss Alice T. Lee made a report on the button day to be run by the League of Catholic Women April 26 and Mr. Kelly of the Casino offered that building for the last week of April.

It was announced that within a few days downtown headquarters for the drive will be established in the League of Catholic Women rooms in the Harrison building. Posters and boxes are to be placed in the stores and window displays are to visit the various theatres to appeal for the support of the campaign. The money is being raised and will be used on a strictly non-sectarian basis and will go directly to the relief of women and children in Ireland. It is to be expended under the direction of the American commission in charge of the Red Cross.

Red Cross Contributors

It has just been announced by the national headquarters of the Red Cross that the executive committee has voted to contribute $100,000 for the Irish relief fund and in view of this donation, the solicitors for the fund have agreed not to ask contributions from the local Red Cross chapters.

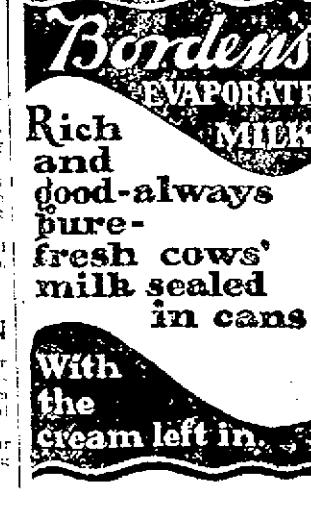

THE 44-HOUR WEEK

The 44-hour week is becoming so general in New South Wales that the labor government there has introduced a bill to make it universal in the manual trades.

Better methods and machinery are expected to meet any supposed increase in the cost of production through shorter working hours.

SOUNDS FAMINE ALARM

Senator Ladd Sees Peril Unless United States Gives Farmers Aid

(Special to The Sun)
 WASHINGTON, April 5.—"Either congress must give to agriculture the same attention it gives to commerce and industry, or we're going to face hunger in this country."

That is the message brought to the United States senate by E. F. Ladd, now Non-Partisan league senator from North Dakota.

The problem that the North Dakota farmers have been trying to handle within that state through the Non-Partisan league, Ladd says, "must have the attention of congress and be handled on a national basis."

These include problems of marketing, transportation and credit.

"The day has come," he says, "when agriculture must be stimulated and encouraged if we are not to face famine or be forced to import a large part of our foodstuffs."

Calling on

"Agriculture is the nation's largest industry. It is the largest employer. Yet it is growing less and less productive and profitable."

The present lack of proper marketing accommodations must be remedied. Today the average farmer must dump his crop on the market. In the few weeks of the harvest period, the market is glutted. Prices are depressed.

"The farmer must be put in position to market his products throughout the whole 12 months. Today the man who simply buys and sells the farmer's products makes a greater return than the man who labored to raise it."

"This marketing problem involves directly the question of finances."

"Put the farmer in position to be his own financial manager, to market his products systematically and economically, and the vision of sufficiency which now so forcibly increase the prices of foodstuffs can be shortened."

The result would be a lower figure to the consumer and a reasonable price to the producer."

Must Organize

"Transportation at an uneconomic system of distribution further complicates and increases costs."

"The producer and consumer must be brought closer together. Congress must be made to see and realize it."

"If the consumer and producer will pull together they can reduce the cost of living."

Ladd is a quiet-spoken, intelligent man of 42, who has spent his life in studying agricultural problems and teaching farming. He has been for the last five years head of the state agricultural college in North Dakota.

APPEAL FOR AMNESTY

Labor Leaders Request Pres.

Harding to Free War-Time

Prisoners

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Amnesty for persons convicted of war time offenses was requested of President

Harding by a delegation of labor leaders, headed by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who called yesterday at the White House. The president was quoted by members of the delegation

as having said he was giving the nation "open shop drive on this union."

Many large firms are still holding out, and there is a mass of litigation

in the courts, growing out of scores of injunctions and suits against the union for damages totalling more than $2,000,000.

Peared "deeply interested" in receiving the amnesty appeal.

"I think," the labor leader said, "that the president made the committee hopeful of good results."

Members of the delegation said that the name of Eugene V. Debs, the socialist leader now serving a term in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta for violation of the espionage act, was not mentioned during the conference. It was added that the names of no prisoners were specified, the matter being discussed in its entirety without reference to its individual cases.

GAVE $60,000 FOR IRISH RELIEF

Great Theatrical Performance
—Elks Gave $1000 in Picture Auction

Archbishop Hayes Gave $5000—Great Gathering of Stars

NEW YORK, April 5.—The Metropolitan Opera House was jammed to the outer doors yesterday afternoon for a real all-star benefit performance given for the Irish relief fund under the auspices of the theatrical division of the national committee. More than $60,000 was raised, and groups of Irish nurses swelled the day's total with contributions dung into their baskets by those in the Opera House and passersby.

George M. Cohan and William Collier appeared twice, once in a diverting song and dance skit, again as auctioneers. In both instances they made a hit with the crowd. As auctioneer Cohan weaned $1000 out of Mother Lodge, B.P.O.E., for the framed original of Henry Clive's "Irish Girl" on the cover of the souvenir program, Collier got $500 out of the same lodge for a signatured program, and $300 from Dennis McSwiney for a second souvenir program.

Later in the afternoon Archbishop Hayes arrived and subscribed $1000. He said he did not know where he was going to get this sum, but that it would be given. The archbishop made a short address in which he thanked "the men and women of stoneland for their generosity" and assured them that he was their friend, always ready and willing to assist them when the opportunity presented.

The players volunteered their services and gave probably one of the most extraordinary variety entertainments witnessed on the stage in recent years.

The performance was under the direction of Joseph P. Maxwell, head of the theatrical division of the national committee. Patrick Casey was the stage manager. The musical program was directed by John McHale. The Symphony orchestra was in the pit. Laurette Taylor and Gordon Ashe were there, so was Pat Rooney and his jazz band. Willie and Eugene Howard came from the Winter Garden.

Other performers were Grace Nelson, Vanderbilts' song bird; Paul Whitey's orchestra from the Palais Royal; Van and Schenck from Ziegfeld's; Cohen's comedians from "Mary" at the Knickerbocker; Sam Bernard, Channing Olcott, the New York Police Glee club, Bugs Baer, Harry Clive, Tommy Gray, Bobby Watson and Tom McNamara were there by permission of themselves."

The principals and ensemble from "Irish" at the Vanderbilt appeared. So did Allan McQuade, Irish tenor, and Miss Narelle, the Australian singer. Walter C. Kelly told funny stories, there were selections from "The Rose Girl," the Four Nasons from the Hippodrome gave their unique performances and Victor Herbert entertained with his wife, Andrew Mack, Tom Eysk and Max Tilley. William Rock, Harry Carroll and his company and Arthur Spalding, violinist, helped make an afternoon of it that completed a bill of remarkable excellence.

LOWELL DAY AT WOMEN'S CLUB

It was Lowell day at the Middlesex Women's club yesterday and only Lowell talent was employed in presenting the program of the regular Monday afternoon meeting. The meeting was under the auspices of the literature department with its chairman, Miss M. H. A. Severance, presiding.

Miss Maud Laddie read an interesting and instructive paper on "Thos. Wright's 'Life of John Payne'" and "The Life of Lafcadio Hearn," written by Mrs. Thomas H. Elliott and read by Miss Alice Stickney was also highly meritorious. Miss Mary G. Stevens talked entertainingly on "Modern Females in Fiction" and, as usual, her remarks bore the stamp of originality. She gave over considerable share of her time to a discussion of "Main Street," the new Sinclair Lewis book.

FRIENDS OF IRISH FREEDOM MEETING

John J. Spillane of New Haven, national vice president of the Friends of Irish Freedom, addressed the Lowell branch at a largely attended meeting in Kilbarian hall Sunday evening and made a strong plea for the relief of the suffering in Ireland. He said that the Friends of Irish Freedom had no animosity toward other organizations formed to aid the independence movement in Ireland. A communication from Fred H. Hourie, supervisor of the relief fund campaign in northern Middlesex county, asking that a delegate be sent to a meeting of the committee in charge of the drive, was received.

Following the address of Mr. Spillane an excellent program of entertainment was carried out.

AMEND THE WORKMEN'S FEELS DUTY BOUND COMPENSATION LAW TO TELL EVERYONE

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, April 5.—By a vote of 147 to 61, the house yesterday afternoon substituted in place of an adverse committee report a bill amending the workmen's compensation law by providing that if an employee is incapacitated for a period of more than twenty-eight days, compensation shall date from the day of the injury.

Under the law as it reads at present, compensation begins on the eleventh day after the injury, no matter for how long the employee is incapacitated.

Rep. Abbott of Haverhill, chairman of the judiciary committee, told the house that passage of the law would add $1,000,000 annually to the expense of administering the workmen's compensation law, an expense which the insurance companies will transfer to employers, and employers in turn will pass along to the purchasers of their goods.

He pointed out that because of the workmen's compensation act Massachusetts employers are paying on account of injuries to their workmen ten times as much as they paid under the old employers' liability law. It is only a question of time, he said, when these additional burdens placed upon employers cannot be shifted to the purchasing public, because employers in other states do not have to bear them, and consequently they will be able, if burdens continue to increase, to undersell Massachusetts manufacturers. When that time comes, he said, the cotton industry will go south and the shoe industry will be forced to move west.

On the twenty-eight day bill, however, his advice was unheeded, but the house sustained his objections and rejected another bill, the purpose of which was to reduce the ten day waiting period to six—that is, providing that an injured employee should begin to receive compensation on the seventh day after his injury.

The house spent an entire session debating workmen's compensation bills of various kinds, all of which had been reported adversely by the judiciary committee. At the time of adjournment a bill providing for the establishment of a state fund, and the barring of all private insurance companies from participation in workmen's compensation business, was under discussion.

The senate finally had a roll-call on the bill repealing the compulsory vaccination law with respect to children in the public schools, and the bill was passed to be engrossed by a vote of 29 to 15. This is the third vote on the bill in the senate, but the first time that a roll-call has been had. The bill will now go to the house, where its defeat is predicted by members of the medical fraternity.

Capitalization of the premiums of gas and electric light companies which has occupied so much of the attention of the general court this year, was again debated in the senate yesterday on the question whether the recess study of the matter shall be made by the department of public utilities alone or by that department in connection with a commission of legislators. Finally the whole matter was laid upon the table.

After having rejected it last week, the senate again considered yesterday the bill providing that school teachers who are threatened with dismissal shall be entitled to a public hearing before the charges against them. After a brief debate the bill was passed to be engrossed. It had previously passed the house, and will now go to the governor.

Governor Cox yesterday submitted his first executive veto, returning without his approval a bill providing that dealers in ice shall sell their commodity in whatever amount the purchaser may request. He said no public demand for the legislation has appeared, and in the absence of such demand it would be folly to discard the present regulation of sales of ice, which has been the result of years of legislative effort.

HOW TO MAKE MONEY

MRS. A. J. STASNY

"Get into business for yourself and plug!" is Mrs. A. J. Stasny's formula for making money. She is numbered among American women making $50,000 or more a year. Five years ago she and her husband invested their last $75 in a popular song. They used their tiny New York apartment as stock room and office. Now their popular song business has grown until it has branches in 18 cities in America and Europe.

MEMORIES OF OLD DAYS
ON MISSISSIPPI REVIVED

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 5.—Memories of old days on the Mississippi, when steamers plied in the passenger trade are revived by the reumption of traffic between Plattsburgh, N.Y., and this city by way of the Ohio. Barges have carried freight traffic on the great river for many years since the packets were driven out by railroad competition. In the days of Mark Twain the Mississippi packets were celebrated for their "feats." Their famous races, their pilots and even for their poker games.

It used to be no uncommon sight to see from 15 to 30 passengers Russell, from the packet to the western heater camp leave the New Orleans landings daily for up-river points.

Coming of the railroads with quick service for perishable cargo, many lines almost paralleling the river between the most important landings, caused river traffic to lose its prestige.

Shippers began sending cotton and other non-perishable freight by rail and the stops of the river packets were fewer and fewer as the years went on.

Plantation landings dotted away, planters began to buy railroad tickets instead of steamer passage and made their planes to spend the difference in the New Orleans instead of on the boats. Planters moved to living social life in the country began to wane—in short, country dwellers became farm ers and plantations became farms. It was romantic to be a planter, but much more profitable to be a farmer. All of this directly affected passenger traffic.

A river voyage in the olden days was in pleasurable order if the boilers did not blow up or the vessel hit one of the shifting sand-bars, mud-tunnels or hidden snags. A comfortable berth, wonderful meals, dancing at night, watermelon parties, well-stocked bars, and draw poker games for the patrons of that form of amusement, and last, but not least, the antics of the negro roustabouts all combined to make things pleasant for the traveler.

Coffee in bed was the rule, then a breakfast of bacon, eggs, waffles, pancakes started the day. At noon there was fruit, fish, roast, vegetables, the ever-present coffee and whatever dessert the cook had in mind for the meal. The rest of the day came in the early evening with creole gumbo. If the cooks happened to fall from New Orleans as most of them did—fried fish, roast fowl with baked or candied yams, beef or pork, fruit in abundance, dessert and "small black" coffee with brandy. It wasn't variety but quantity that made the steamer bill of fare famous.

In the heat of the afternoon, behind shielding mosquito bars the passenger, if he so desired, could quaff mint juleps or sip corn whiskey cocktails, not to mention the old flat-bottom toddies, made with sugar, water, pineapples and orange juice and, of course, whiskey. The old-timers here, with scant stocks of liquor and facing the coming year with visions of nut sundaes, never tired of telling the younger generation of the old "hard liquor" days of the river steamboats.

The card games were for big stakes, veterans vouch for the truth of stories of a planter embarking in Mississippi worth "a plantation with 250 negroes" and disembarking at the Canal street landing in New Orleans with only some bills of lading for something he no longer owned.

But those days are gone. If plans for those interested in river traffic bear fruit the modern steamers will eliminate gambling, carry well drilled crews and furnish modern meals at modern prices.

In advertising sailings of vessels of the olden days the name of the first mate always was given. The first mate became known up and down the river either as good or bad by the manner in which they handled the routabouts. A mean man did not last long as first mate.

Saturday was usually the sailing day for up-river packets from this port. There was great rivalry between boat owners and crew and usually from one to a dozen boat races were pulled off as the vessels chugged up the river. It was then that bolters blew up with marked frequency.

The most famous of these races was run by the Natchez and the Robert E. Lee, two of the largest of the river packets. So keen was the rivalry that early in the seventies it was planned to have them race from New Orleans to St. Louis. No passengers or freight was carried and for weeks the contest race was the chief topic of conversation along the river. The Robert E. Lee was in command of Capt. Cannon while Capt. Leathers was master of the Natchez. No stops were made except for fuel. The trip to St. Louis was made in just a few hours over three days, an unheard of record then was made in just a few hours over with the Robert E. Lee the winner by a small margin.

Another famous race between the White Rose of Memphis and the Grand Republic ended in disaster. After racing upstream for hours in a "neck and neck" contest, the White Rose struck a snag and sank. Before the Grand Republic arrived from the south, the White Rose had been pulled out of the water and repaired and the record stood.

All the old boats were built on the same general pattern—broad hulls, with large spacious cabins above and with wide guards, usually piled high with freight. They were almost always painted white and each was equipped with a whistle slightly different from the others. It was quite an accomplishment, or was so regarded by negroes at the various landings to be able to distinguish the distant whistling and call the name of the boat.

Promoters now are figuring whether human nature has changed from the olden days, whether a person will be content to idle the time away on long trips which he could make in a fraction of the time by rail; whether they have time to take quiet pleasure.

Freight rates, interstate commerce commission hearings, uniform bills of lading and other prosaic commercial matters figure in the traffic side of the question. The passenger business is regarded as a gamble.

public could clear a nearby beach her boilers exploded, killing a number of the crew.

After the war between the states steamboats had been perfected to a higher degree and river traffic became more important. While most of the boats used wood for fuel, getting it from well established woodyards along the river, still they made good time and business was flourishing.

While as a general rule the boats were operated independently by their owners even as early as 1870 there were several lines operating many large passenger vessels. The largest and best known was the Anchor Line, which operated between New Orleans and St. Louis, making regular schedules, while another line was operating between St. Louis and St. Paul. The city of New Orleans and City of Baton Rouge were the larger and best known vessels of the Anchor Line. The largest side-wheeler operated on the river was the Republic.

In addition to the Anchor Line there were several companies operating from New Orleans to Natchez, Vicksburg, Greenville and "The Bends." They usually carried a hundred or so passengers and large freight cargoes. They were mostly side-wheelers. From St. Louis one line operated as far north as Fort Benton, Montana.

Frigate from up the river included flour, pork, beef, furniture, bay, cotton, rice and sugar. The largest cargo of cotton ever brought down was landed by the Henry Frank and consisted of 9000 bales. The cotton was not compressed and the record has stood.

All the old boats were built on the same general pattern—broad hulls, with large spacious cabins above and with wide guards, usually piled high with freight. They were almost always painted white and each was equipped with a whistle slightly different from the others. It was quite an accomplishment, or was so regarded by negroes at the various landings to be able to distinguish the distant whistling and call the name of the boat.

ALL JOIN IN EFFORTS TO HELP STARVING CHINESE

PEKING, April 5.—Never have the Chinese people and their government made greater efforts to meet a national disaster than they are now making to feed the hungry of the famine-stricken districts, say observers here.

When relief measures began, President Chou Shih-chang gave the first big impetus to Chinese relief measures with a contribution of $100,000 and he has given $20,000 to the national relief drive which has raised several hundred thousand dollars. The president's wife is a contributor to many funds.

Chinese students and numerous organizations of farmers, business men or workers in various industries have contributed their efforts to aid this drive.

Chinese civil employees are giving 25 per cent of their salaries. Taxes on railway tickets yield a large sum monthly, all devoted to famine relief. The government is now collecting $750,000 monthly by means of a sur-tax.

Chinese provincial and city governments in the region south of the famine area are providing work for the starving.

The central government is building a highway 50 miles long in Shantung, and all victims in that district are given employment.

Teams and villages in every part of Manchuria have organized relief committees, and a fund of $200,000 has been raised by the residents. An entire district in the famine area has been taken over by the Manchurians for care until the next harvest.

A loan of $400,000 for relief work has been floated by four Chinese banks. Merchants in Shanghai raised nearly $3,000,000 and Chinese outside of the country have sent thousands of contributions. One rich Chinese merchant in the Straits settlements has sent more than $1,000,000. The Sheng family of Shanghai has already given $500,000. A large land owner in the famine district has mortgaged his entire property and borrowed all he can on notes, thus keeping alive a whole township.

The Chinese government is guaranteeing free transportation of supplies and relief workers, with priority for all grain shipments for the famine sufferers.

"Tug days" in this city, Hankow, Shanghai, Canton, Tientsin and Foochow have produced funds. In Peking 4000 volunteers tagged more than 400,000 persons.

Efforts have not stopped at organized movements. Personal sacrifice is general. Young girls have banded in many cities under an agreement to deny themselves certain food. Students at one of the large universities asked that all meal be taken from their meals and the money saved devoted to relief work. New Year feasts were abandoned in many parts of the republic. Vegetables and cotton are planted even in the presidential palace grounds instead of the usual rare flowers and plants.

The heat from a pound of coal, if there is no waste, can raise 12 million of water from freezing to the boiling point.

WOMEN NOT YET ON EVEN FOOTING WITH MEN

CHICAGO, April 5.—Granting of women suffrage has not yet given women full rights with men in a large part of the United States. It is indicated by a survey of the middle and southwest made by the Associated Press. In only a quarter of this territory, it appears, do women stand undistinctly on an even footing with men.

The discriminations where they exist are, however, for the most part small. The chief disability lies in the right to sit on juries.

The stumbling block in this case is generally a constitutional provision that Juriesmen must be males. Removal of the disqualification has been urged in a number of legislatures this winter.

Other exceptions women are under in various states include these:

In Iowa, they cannot sit in the legislature.

In Wisconsin, they cannot serve as a legislative employee.

In North Dakota, they do not pay poll tax.

In Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, and South Dakota women are required as jurors from jury duty by constitutional provision of statute.

In Nebraska, although an Omaha woman recently sat on a jury, existing law makes this illegal. In Kentucky, a portion at least of the circuit judges believe that the use of the masculine in the statute does not bar women from jury duty, as women have served on a circuit court jury in Jessamine county and on both petit and grand juries in Laurel county. There has been no opinion by the Kentucky attorney general or the courts.

In Minnesota, the attorney general has held that women cannot serve on juries, but several district court judges have held otherwise and admitted them to juries. In Illinois until the supreme court rules definitely, judges are permitted to determine for themselves whether women shall serve as jurors.

The North Dakota legislature recently passed a law permitting women to serve on juries but not requiring such service.

In Indiana the legislature has just removed a discrimination by enacting that the father and mother jointly, if living, shall be the natural guardians of their children, instead of the father alone.

Iowa women contemplate effort to have their inability to sit in the legislature removed through an approaching constitutional convention. Otherwise they enjoy full rights with men.

JUDGE CHASE
QUITTS "L" PROBE

BOSTON, April 5.—The special committee of the legislature appointed to investigate the charges of irregular conduct on the part of members of the 1918-19 general court in connection with the passage of legislation affecting the Boston Elevated Railway met yesterday afternoon and formally accepted Judge Frederic H. Chase's withdrawal as counsel. The committee considered the names of several practicing attorneys, but did not decide upon anyone to whom the appointment might be offered.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEEPS THEATRE
B. F. Keith's returned to Keith's theatre yesterday after an absence of nine years, but the long, happy failed to dim the memory of many of those in the audience who recalled his funny work when he last appeared here and he was given a big hand when he made his entry. He is the same old impersonator of rube characters, from the man of the little country church to the village blacksmith who takes pride in the fact that he knows about the town's one poorness.

Keith opens up with a bit of character work on the Sunday morning services in the village church. He is the solemn-looking minister who smiles ingratiatingly when he recognizes his particular favorite in his congregation. This smile is one of the best features of Sod's work. It caused a roar every time he "pulled" it yesterday. His announcements are worthy of reproduction in a Mark Twain volume. Especially funny is his description of the "good" benefit "with steam," which is to take place on the following Friday evening.

His other characterizations are excellent, especially that of the bent-over crooked player who must go through a series of nerve-racking contortions even to sit down. Sod has something human in his work that will appeal to everybody. He is the ordinary impersonator; he's Chic Sale.

Tom Toney and Ann Norman in "You Know What I Mean" are enter-tainers of more than average ability and every bit of their work went over big last night. The story is good, benefit "with steam," which is to take place on the following Friday evening.

Desmond's "Inimitable" is more attractive than the written lines, for Desmond's inimitable character of the priest stands out as one of the big character roles of the year.

In addition to the leading attraction, the Rialto program also carried Ruby De Remer in "Luxury," a continuation of "The Son of Tarzan," a Jimmy Durbin comedy, "The Trouble Hunter," a Ford weekly, and the Fox News. It is one of the best balanced and most varied bills seen in Boston for many months.

It immediately goes back into character, and you forget that he is not a woman. His co-attractions include Ruth Etting, Geraldine Farrar, Ruth St. Denis and several other favorites. His going caused many a gasp of envy from feminine bosoms at yesterday's performances.

Harry and Kitty Kelley present an amusing bit of jollity in "A Taxidog." Harry is the aggressive taxi driver and Kitty the young woman who answers calls for machines. They chatter away amusingly and Harry sings appealingly "When It's Apple Blossom Time" and "That Old Irish Mother of Mine."

Bernard and Harry, "southern sycopates," are burnt-cork comedians who sing incessantly but well and happily steer clear of bantering. Their specialty is music and they do nothing but specialize.

Douley Follett opens the bill well in a tight-wire and singing offering and Stewart and Mercer are aerial performers of merit. The Kinogram News Weekly shows views taken at the funeral of Cardinal Gibbons while Tolson of the Day is up to his usual standard. A special feature for this week is a film on accident prevention.

RIALTO THEATRE

After having been a stage attraction for so many years that one lost count of the number, "The Parish Priest" is revived again in picture form and is offered to the lovers of the screen productions by Herman J. Mankiewicz and picture with William Desmond. In the end, the play caused a three day engagement and simply left a large audience intensely interested in the same manner as did just Sully in the stage success of olden days. In fact the screen version of the story seems much

The Kinogram News Weekly shows views taken at the funeral of Cardinal Gibbons while Tolson of the Day is up to his usual standard. A special feature for this week is a film on accident prevention.

"The Strand Iron" is the big attraction at the Strand theatre for the first three days of the week. This wonderful drama is a Reginald Barker production, which features Barbara Stanwyck in the title role. It is a truly good play, and one that will appeal to all. Another very good number on the program is "The Greater Claim," a story of love and romance in which Alice Lake, a local favorite, sustains the leading part. Then there is a very amusing comedy and current events that are both educational and interesting. The comedy is good and the musical numbers by Miss Elsie Robbins are very enjoyable.

"The Branding Iron" unfolds the story of a young girl, Joan Carter, who in her younger days was imprisoned in a mountain cabin by her father and was never permitted to see or enjoy the outer world. One night her drunken father is more intoxicated than ever, she leaves the cabin and takes refuge in a ranch house in the valley. There she meets Pierie Laddis, who wins her and later marries her. The father then turns up and warns the husband that his wife has inherited the weakness of her mother, and develops the germ of jealousy in the husband's heart. A young preacher of the district, who becomes fond of the girl, is prompted by sympathy to teach her to read and write and enjoy good books. When Pierie later finds the two together he ties his young wife to a bedpost and brands her with a hot iron. The rest of the story is mighty interesting.

In "The Greater Claim" Miss Lake sustains the role of Mary Smith, a highly beauty, who marries the young son of a rich man. The honeymoon is of short duration, however, for the young groom is kidnapped and taken to sea by ruffians. In the meantime the father of the young husband has the marriage annulled. When the boy reaches his 21st birthday he plunges from the boat into sea and manages to reach shore safely, and returns home to find that his wife has returned to the stage. A child is born to Mary and shortly comes home to accept the aid of two crooks to get money from the child's father, with the result that the child is adopted by the grandfather. Mary, incognito, hires as nurse for the care of the child. What happens afterwards is best told on the screen.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE
"Madame X." presented by the Lowell Players at the Opera House yesterday is an all-right play. It is told in that it starts out with what we do not see so very often now-a-days, a prologue, it has single speeches of almost interminable length. It is a picture of sufficing, rehorse and misery with scarcely a single dash of humor. Yet it is a play that grips the emotions and holds them tense and alive from start to finish. It is a play that goes straight to the heart with its appeal to the passions and the weaknesses that are inherent in all humanity.

The story is of a wife, who in a moment of madness, deserts a loving husband and her infant child, to live in the night with her lover. This is the beginning of the drama as outlined in the prologue. The first act takes the spectator at a single jump over 23 years of time that has passed. The unhappy wife has descended into the depths of degradation. Sodden with drink and drags she has become a creature without shame. With unshaken faith in the prophecies that has come to her through fortune-telling cards, she believes that the sooner to the end she persuades her lover of the moment to take her back to her home land in France from whence she has wandered afar.

The story is of a wife, who in a moment of passion, to protect her son, goes from manhood, from being full of love, of the shame she should feel over her lover's shame, she should be maintained a stony silence.

Arrested and in prison she becomes known as Madame X. She will be known by her name. By a strange twist of fate her son, now a lawyer, is given the task of defending her on the charge of murder.

The last act is one of dramatic intensity. Madame X., a broken and derelict shadow of her former self, lies in the prisoner's dock in the court room. The Judge is on the bench, the public prosecutor and the son as lawyer for the defense, are in their places, the jury sits silently listening to the evidence. The deserted husband of 10 years ago is seated beside the judge. The witnesses are heard. The prisoner is implored to speak of the facts that have led him to commit the crime. She refuses to speak. The address of the son to the jury, pleading for the life of the woman, who, unknown to him, is his mother, produces a profound effect. The woman is acquitted. Her identity becomes known to father and son, and the penitent sinner forgives her injured husband and with her injured husband and with the son, the two are now happy.

Miss Marguerite Fields, who has played many parts since she became associated with the Lowell Players, has seldom appeared to better advantage than in "Madame X." Her portrayal throughout is convincing in its earnestness. In the play she shows the woman's woe and desolation of the unfortunate victim of circumstances with skill and dramatic intensity. Milton Byron as Raymond Floriot, the son, is as usual very satisfactory. Fred Astor could have carried through more successfully the long speech before the jury in the third act. Kenneth Stanwyck as Louis Floriot, the deserted husband, gives a finished piece of acting, refined, dramatic. Directed as it is by an amateur, deserves a award of approval for his picturing of a villain without scruples of conscience. The other parts are all in capable hands. Aside from those already mentioned the characters are as follows:

ROSE, housekeeper for Louis Floriot.

Priscilla Knobles,

Dr. Cheneau, his physician.

Noel Floriot's friend, Chas. L. Barton.

Victor, porter at the "Three Crowns."

Inn . . . . . William Fleming.

Confidential Missions, Perrisard, Merrifield.

Fred Woodbury, Martin Miskell.

Marie, chambermaid at the "Three Crowns."

Dorothy Pembroke.

Helene, daughter of the Prosecuting Attorney . . . . . Florence Hill.

President of the court . . . . . Jack Bennett.

Valerian, the Public Prosecutor.

Paul Scott.

MURKINIAN SOUTHERN THEATRE

A remarkable picture, filled with which witnessed the opening presentation of "The Inside of the Cup," the feature production of the Murkinian Southern stage yesterday afternoon and last evening.

When Winston Churchill's famous novel of the same name was published in 1914, it was bitterly criticized by clergymen as being an unwarranted attack upon the cloth.

While the philosophy of the novel is exploited to the extreme in the play, this necessarily has been subordinated to the dramatic interest of the story itself, the result being a definitely captivating production which will please almost any fan.

The story has to do with one John Hodder, rector of St. John's fashionable church in the little town of Brecon. The church is near a deserted mine with sulfurous and dirty water, and the gasping, pale faces of the miners, like the faces of the poor, are the best tellers of the poor, never enter-its doors.

30 LIVES LOST IN STORM PLANE FALLS INTO CROWD --8 PERSONS KILLED

Great Property Damage Also Caused Along Southern
Coast of Japan

TOKIO, April 5—(By the Associated Press)—Great property damage was done and 30 lives were lost in storm which swept the southern coast of Japan on Sunday night. Telephone and telegraph lines are prostrated throughout the southern part of the empire. Tokio is still in darkness and a number of houses were destroyed.

The storm was especially severe in the harbor of Yokohama. The Japanese steamers Alabama, Maru and Atsuta Maru dragged their anchors and went ashore. The former was about to sail for Seattle and had her passengers aboard.

Related dispatches report inundations in many prefectures. Many houses were demolished by the waves. A naval cutter capsized near the port of Nagoya, and an officer and eight bluejackets were drowned. Eight women were buried when a tunnel collapsed near Fukushima. The Ito Hilda and Tenryu rivers in the province of Gifu overflowed and 300 houses were flooded. The famous bridge across the Tenryu river was destroyed.

The American steamer Golden State weathered the gale and arrived here yesterday. Numerous receptions were given her officers and men, the return of American shipping to the Pacific being welcomed by officials at Yokohama.

METHODS TO EXPAND AMERICAN TRADE

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Development of methods for expanding American trade both foreign and domestic, under close co-operation between the government and business, formed the general purpose today of the first of a series of conferences between Secretary Hoover and a special committee of five of the chamber of commerce of the United States. The committee was appointed at Mr. Hoover's request to co-operate in working out a plan of closer co-operation between American industry and the department of commerce.

In addition to a general survey of world trade conditions, the conference was prepared to take up specifically the matter of appointing committees representing all the great industries of the nation to co-operate with the department in plans for the revival of business in their respective fields.

Back to House of Correction

After failing to appear in court this morning to explain why he has not paid a fine levied many weeks ago and never paid, in spite of continued leniency and extensions granted by the court, a captain was arrested for the defense of the enterprise, as issued at a request that local people provide the four or five machines which are needed. Miss Munion, who was a guest at Mrs. Merritt's home during her stay in this city, was introduced to the meeting by the president, Mrs. Carroll Hewitt of the auxiliary here.

Judge Enright discussed the advisability of sending them to the pen, on the ground of maliciously damaging property. Stark protested at this, denying having had part in the amusements of Szwel. The reply of the court was, "Evil associations corrupt good manners." Both defendants pleaded guilty, and in fact attributed whatever misconduct they may have committed to the fact that they were "very drunk." With a warning, they were freed, their cases being placed on file. The case of Mary Lamphier, also charged with drunkenness, was continued on request of counsel, with the consent of Jeremiah Dooley, who made the arrest. The case of the Lamphier woman, who pleaded not guilty, will be heard April 12. Adelie Hubert, an elderly woman, charged with drunkenness, was freed, the case being placed on file. Both of health officials, however, visited her Saturday, and reported the finding of fitful conditions. An invalid woman for whom she had been caring will be removed by the invalid's daughter, and the residence will be fumigated.

street and Kathleen G. Dorett for a garage at 3 Fifth street.

An order was adopted to lay out and accept Linwood street from Midland street to Norrist street.

Commissioners Murphy and Marchand reported favorably on the petitions of the Lowell Electric Light corporation for pole locations in Cumberland road and Bulman road and the accompanying orders were adopted.

License Fee Established

John J. Flaherty, clerk of the license commission, spoke of the recently enacted law providing for the charging of license fees for lodging houses not exceeding $2, providing the municipal council takes action on the matter. Unless the council fixes the fee, the license commission can charge no fee.

Mr. Flaherty said that the commission hoped that the council would establish the maximum fee of $2. He said that the lodging houses require much attention, even more than restaurants and lunch carts, where a $2 fee is charged. Police inspectors have to make frequent visits to some of the lodging houses, he said.

Last year there were issued 216 lodging house licenses. This would mean that more than $400 would be added to the city's revenues annually, if the maximum fee were established.

On motion of Commissioner Murphy it was voted to take the commission on the matter from the table and it was then voted to establish a fee of $2 per year for all lodging houses.

Commissioner Salmon reported favorably on the following petitions and the license fees were granted:

Merrimack Motor company, garage and gasoline, 111 Chelmsford.

Goodwin Furniture company, garage and gasoline, road 66 Prescott.

H. A. Bissell, garage, Cheever and Tucker streets.

The council elected Dr. Walter A. Sherman animal Inspector for the year beginning April 1, 1921, subject to the approval of the state authorities.

Commissioner Murphy introduced an order to borrow $10,000 for sidewalk construction. The clerk was directed to advertise the order before action is taken.

A communication from the board of directors of the chamber of commerce asked what action, if any, had been taken by the council on a report recently submitted by the chamber on the condition of Lowell streets with recommendations for their improvement. The original report was referred to Commissioner Murphy. Mr. Murphy said that owing to his illness he had been unable to give the report much consideration. It was referred to the letter to Commissioner Murphy.

At the request of the attorneys for the First National bank of Boston and on the recommendation of the city treasurer, a committee was appointed on March 22, fixing the times of payment of bonds issued by the city under authority of Chapter 229 of the Act of 1919 for a new high school and heating and power plant. The original order was not advertised owing to the fact that the bank attorneys said at the time it would not be necessary. Later, they expressed the opinion that it should be advertised, but were not able to do so. It was then decided to advertise the order again. Hence, a new order confirming the old one, despite the fact that it was not advertised, was passed today.

The emergency clause was attached. Commissioner Murphy was authorized to issue a requisition on the purchasing agent for the purchase of one car of white chipped oats.

On motion of H. L. Stanley, an order was adopted approving the opening of Sutton avenue, from Beacon street to Third street.

PRINTING THE NEWS

To print the news is the purpose and province of reputable newspapers to print it as fully and completely as possible—to give a reasonably accurate picture of the daily unfoldment of life in the moving world of men and women of which we are all a part. There are imperfections. Yes, and always will be so long as they are made by human beings who have not yet learned the way to attain that degree of perfection to which some of their critics, it would seem, might be suspected of thinking they had attained.

Newspapers realize very clearly that the standard of the journals that they make is not what they would like to have it be. There is an ideal always just ahead that is never reached. Nevertheless, the daily press next to the church, stands day in and day out, upholding the cause of justice, righteousness and truth in a world that commonly expresses little appreciation for its work. It can safely be said that there is no business or profession that has on the whole a higher standard of ethics, or that looks upon its mission in the world with more serious thoughtfulness than journalism.

Yet day in and day out, the papers are criticized both because of things they do print and things they do not print. Lately there has been much fault-finding because publicity has been given to a noted divorce case in which a prominent New York financier is involved. "Why print anything about such a case as this?" the fault-finders ask. "Why not let nescious doings remain hidden in oblivion?"

As has been pointed out recently by the New York Times, there is one very good reason why this case has been given the publicity that it has. It is the fear that their actions will be dragged out into the broad light of day that acts as a deterrent to persons of the class of the New York banker, and other classes, to keep them from plunging into immorality. It is fear that their acts will become known through the columns of the newspapers that keeps many a conscientious wretch from leaving the straight and narrow path to embark upon a course of behavior that would be abhorrent to decency-loving people.

There is another class of critics that the press has to deal with. They object to a newspaper printing the news if, in their opinion, it is in any way calculated to interfere with their own personal or business interests. They are as a rule glad to have the news printed about everybody else, but when something in the daily record of events happens to hit them, they object strenuously. Many of these persons think they have a right to dictate what the newspapers shall, and shall not, print. Unless their wishes are regarded, they not infrequently resort to threats as to what they will do or will not do to the journal that happens to offend them.

PROF. EINSTEIN

Surely the United States will extend a most cordial welcome to Prof. Albert Einstein, who comes to this country to aid the Zionist movement. The professor has cast the scientists of the world into a maze of conjecture over his hypothesis of universal relativity under which he holds that if the mechanism of the celestial bodies were removed, space and time would also disappear, whereas scientists up to the present have held that if all else disappeared, space and time would remain.

Whether the professor's theory be sustained by scientific demonstration or whether it shall be eventually rejected, will not affect this busy world in the slightest degree—not half so much as the variation of the geocentric parallax which does not seem to cause any commotion or inconvenience among the inhabitants of our planet.

"COUSIN" EVERETT

Cousin Everett Harding, who posed as a relative of President Harding from the time the latter came into the arena in the Chicago convention, is one of those callousless lakers who have unlimited gull and who can take advantage of an opportunity to impose upon the gullible. Needless to say, this confidence man is in no way connected with the president, and the wonder is, that he was not exposed before he had time to swindle many people. The fact that he will spend several years in a federal penitentiary will not help those whom he victimized.

First street, if it gets into the movies, ought to have a phonograph record of some of the language that it has inspired to go along with the pictures to make them realistic.

ently.

No Such Animal

The story that made millions laugh
that one which includes "Thundering Land no such animal"—was, we think, a pretty good running mate in the following more recent one. A countryman was standing on a fish quay where the day's catch was being landed. Presently a swordfish of monstrous size was hoisted up, and the old fellow stared at it in wonder and amazement. He positively could not believe his senses, and when at last he recovered himself sufficiently that caught that fish is a darn harm."

An Expensive Dinner

The favorite avocation of a well-known surgeon is his model farm near Chicago. It pays no profit except great pleasure. He is hospitable, always asking friends to dinner. One Sunday about noon unexpected guests arrived. His wife was absent. "My heavens," she said, "we haven't anything to give them." "Oh, anything will do," said the doctor. So the lady of the house consulted the cook. "What about the crate of pigeons out in the back?" asked the cook. "How many are there?" asked the lady. "About 150," was the answer. "Well, wring their necks and fix them up." Dinner was served and the large platter of squabs was brought to the table.
"What's that?" exclaimed the doctor.
"Now, Fred, just go ahead and serve," said his wife. "But what are these?" he asked. "Just some pigeons we found in the barn," she answered. "My heavens," he exclaimed, "those pigeons cost $25."

A Song

(Copyright, 1921, The Lowell Sun.)
I made a song of laughter
And of delight.
And of the day follows after Starry night;
If my lyric glowed with Maytime
And the words
Were as joyous as the playtime
Of the birds;
It my song were like a garden
Fresh and fair.
On a forest in Arden Hidden where Dryads still delight in dances
Mid the trees,
And the spirit of bittersweet romance is
On the breeze;

If my song were tener, sweater
Than the rays
Of all love's golden meter,
Coral praisin',
I should hide that fond endeavor
On the shelf
For no sour could rival ever.

—BERTON BRALEY.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

"It is an early spring." You hear that remark frequently. You also hear people expressing opinions as to how much in advance of the usual schedule the balmy days that start vegetation into life are in arriving. The lilac bushes are well covered with foliage, the buds on the trees have given them a distinct coloring of the springtime, early rose bushes have their leafage well out in some places. It is almost as green as in mid-June. It is my guess that the reason is about ten days ahead of time. Others will doubtless guess differently. Most of us probably do not remember backward farther than one or two springs. Last year at this time we were just emerging from the blizzard zone. The snow 100 miles north of Lowell still lay banked several feet deep, and the winds sweeping down over the frozen surfaces brought an Arctic chill. Today there is comparatively little snow in the north. That should help some to ward continued days of warmth and sunshine. Two years ago about the middle of April the boys of the Yankee division had their farewell parade through the streets of Boston. It was almost a midwinter day. People sat on the grandstands swathed in rugs, robes and fur capes and shivered. The memory of the day, for those who saw the great spectacle, is one of acute discomfort with a seemingly effortless thinned line of marching men in blizzards as a background. Clever inhabitants will tell you of the coldness of 45 years ago. It was the 15th anniversary of the battle of Lexington. A big celebration had been planned at the site of the battle. An old man, a frail, elderly, comfortable gentleman, was sitting in a chair and had his pipe in his mouth. The old boy had been for a long time on the old battle ground for smoking a banquet. General U. S. Grant was there. Gold made the banquet a failure.

Cousins Give Testimony

that her cousin should go to see a lawyer, and that he replied he would only laugh at him. She claimed that he said he "would end it all by throwing himself in front of a switcher."

The witness testified to her close relations with McKearn and that he called her "Chatterbox" and she had called him "red-head" for many years.

About Old Times

George H. Wiley of Malden, hardware salesman for a Boston firm, was the first witness of the morning. He is a cousin of Mr. McKearn. He said that one day in 1919 the deceased came into the store where he worked and said he wanted to talk about old times.

"I asked him why he was so 'futur' said the witness.

The reply it was testified, was: "I have got into trouble with a woman."

McKearn, the witness continued, said he wanted to go to Australia to hide himself.

Margaret J. Irwin of Somerville, another cousin, was the next witness.

She said that one day in 1918 she saw McKearn passing by her house with a woman and that she went out and touched him on the shoulder and said: "Where are you going Bob?"

He said, witness asserted, that he was going to see a Mrs. Gallagher, and then introduced the woman with him as "Miss Taylor." She said that when they went into her home and stayed several hours.

Wished to Know Why

The witness said her cousin came to her house alone and she asked him if he had introduced "Miss Taylor" as "Miss Taylor." She said that McKearn then spoke of going to Australia.

Cross-examined by Mr. Qua, the witness said she had only seen McKearn three or four times since 1912 when her mother died.

Eva B. Thompson, another cousin of the deceased, told of meeting McKearn on Essex street in Lawrence. She said that it was raining and he took his umbrella and carried it for her while they went shopping together. She said her cousin helped her make purchases and he paid for all of them. He refused an invitation, she said, to go to her home, but said he would come the following Sunday, but didn't.

Tells of Meeting McKearn

Henry L. V. Fiscus, of Somerville, travelling salesman, husband of Mrs. Mae M. Fiscus, told of meeting near Moshell and wife with McKearn near the Middlesex street station in Lowell. He said that deceased and his wife bought $100 worth of Liberty bonds through the railroad.

He said he did not think it strange that a switchman on the railroad should buy so extensively of bonds, because they could be bought on the installment plan.

Sabina Lafote, of Lowell, a widow, cousin of the deceased, said that McKearn took his meals at her house previous to the time that the Taylors came to the city. She said that previous to their arrival she had hired a store from her cousin at the corner of Main and Lincoln streets. She said that Mr. Taylor and McKearn came to the store and she was ordered to vacate the premises. She said that Taylor soon after moved into the store.

Says There Was No Competition

Cross-examined by Mr. Qua, the witness denied that there was any competition between a store she later opened at 91 Main street and the Taylor store. She said she had not spoken to her cousin for eight or nine years.

The contestants at this point rested their case, and Mrs. Isabella Taylor, beneficiary under the will, was called to the stand. Examined by Mr. Qua, she told of her coming from England, where she was born, to Lowell.

Witness said she was introduced to McKearn when she was crossing the railroad tracks where he was a switchman.

Nine years ago, she said, McKearn came to live at her house. Her husband made the arrangements. McKearn, witness said, bought the house she lived in and made additions to it. She said McKearn asked her if she would not like to have a larger kitchen, and that she answered "yes," and built one.

The witness said that McKearn said a number of times that he wanted to live with her family. That he had some property and that it would be given to the witness when he died if she took good care of him.

Fond of Children

The witness said McKearn was always friendly with all the members of the family and was very fond of the children.

Mrs. Taylor told of the purchase of two automobiles at different times. She said that she paid $250 herself for the last one bought. She said that she had been to the Brookton Fair and automobile show with McKearn.

She denied that she had been away from home overnight when away in company with McKearn. She said that the only time she went auto riding alone with McKearn was when a visit was made to his brother's grave in Brookton cemetery.

The witness denied that McKearn had ever given her any money or that she had ever asked him for any, she said that he did not pay any board, and neither did she pay any rent for living in his house.

Mrs. Taylor told of the circumstances connected with giving instructions to Attorney Murphy as to the making of the will by McKearn. She stated that McKearn said that he had earned all of his money himself and that he didn't want his relatives to have any of it; that he had not seen any of them for four years.

Didn't Want Trouble

The witness stated that McKearn wanted to leave his property to her in such a way that his relatives could not cause any trouble, and that he told Attorney Murphy so. She said that McKearn instructed the attorney to draw an order so that her husband could obtain $500 in Liberty bonds from a savings bank.

The witness said that during all of the time that McKearn lived at her house none of his relatives had visited him there.

Mrs. Taylor denied that either she or her husband ever did anything to influence McKearn in making his will.

The witness denied that there had been any improper relations between herself and McKearn.

Cross-examined by Attorney Quanahan, Mrs. Taylor said she became acquainted with McKearn on the day of her first arrival in Lowell.

The witness said that when McKearn came to live at her home it was understood that he should be boarded and have his laundry and room cared for, and that this should be in return for $12 a month, rent that she was not required to pay.

Mrs. Taylor said that she had received $500 in Liberty bonds and $600 in cash from McKearn in payment for her care of him. She admitted that he had only been sick in bed about one week.

DISORDER IN STRIKE

Police Quell Fights of Building Workers in Boston—Ten Men Arrested

BOSTON, April 5.—The first violence connected with the building trades strike occurred yesterday afternoon, when strike sympathizers endeavored to assault men at work on the addition to the National Shawmut Bank.

Ten men, all building trades laborers on strike, were arrested, and two others, who had been at work on the building, were injured in a series of fights and brawls which kept up in the building district to a high pitch of excitement about 4:30. During one of the fights Traffic Officer Walton Doster was struck twice in the head, when he was surrounded by a group of strike sympathizers, while attempting to arrest one of them.

Shortly before 4 o'clock the police received a "tip" that large groups of strike sympathizers were gathering in the North End and making plans to "rush" the men working on several buildings as they were leaving their work. Extra police were sent to guard the buildings and to protect the employees.

The police had no sooner reached their posts than strike sympathizers began to gather. The officers kept the men moving for a while and then the situation became so difficult that a riot call was sent in.

GARY REFUSES TO DISCUSS WAGES

CHICAGO, April 5.—Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the U. S. Steel corporation, who arrived here today, said, inasmuch as he had been out of touch with the affairs of the steel industry since he left New York on March 12, he had nothing to say relative to wages or working conditions in the steel world. It has officially been reported that the corporation plans to reduce wages 20 per cent and institute an 8-hour day.

"I will remain here several days," he said, "but I have no conferences of a business nature in prospect. I will talk Panama canal or Rio Janeiro to you, or anything else regarding my trip, but as I have been out of touch with the industrial world since I left New York, I am not qualified to speak on wages or working conditions."

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads. Just take two ounces of calamine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—Wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the pores free without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and sebaceous from the body that form in the pores of the skin—pinching and squeezing only causes them to enlarge pores and not get them off again after they become enlarged.

The calamine powder and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anybody troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.—Adv.

LOWELL MAN WINS HIKE

John Daly, However, Is Robbed of Victory by a Technically

A Lowell man defeated officers of the French and Italian armies, together with many athletes of those nationalities, to be robbed by a technicality of the victory, when John W. Daly of this city, led the field in a 40-mile, go-as-you-please walking race from Aix, France, to Marseilles and return. Daly, well known in this city, tells of the experience in a letter to Capt. Officer McCann, also a noted athlete here at one time. Daly describes how he "provoked them into challenging" him to enter the race. The contestants ranged from 14-year-old boys to riders of years of age. After the Lowell athlete had outstripped all, they discovered that he had overlooked something in connection with registering, and they disqualified him. This is Daly's second visit to France, for he was there during the war doing army welfare work. Since returning to the continent, he has tramped through Austria, Germany, Italy, France, Ireland, Switzerland, and has even rambled in Africa. He has walked at the lowest ten miles a day, has on some days done twenty, and on one occasion forty miles. He estimates his total pedestrian ramblings since he left the United States on this trip as amounting to 2000 miles covered on foot. He has climbed the Alps on many occasions, often tiring out the professional guides so that they have been left behind. He describes the results upon his health as surprising.

Administration's Peace Program Discussed at Regular Cabinet Meeting Today

HARDING'S VIEWS ON PEACE PLAN

Not Committed to Any Definite Program With Regard to Resolutions

Supported Knox Resolve But Sees No Occasion for Precipitate Action

WASHINGTON, April 5.—President Harding is not committed to any definite program with regard to a congressional resolution to declare the state of war with Germany at an end.

While he voted, for the Knox resolution when he was a member of the senate and spoke favorably with regard to it in his address of acceptance, he is understood to feel that there is no occasion for precipitate action at this time.

The president's views with regard to the peace program are expected to be made known at the opening session of the new congress, which he may address in person. Meantime it is known that he and his advisers are growing more and more convinced that there is no practical way to consider the Versailles covenant.

Most Action Slowly

The administration's peace program is understood to have been discussed at the regular cabinet meeting today. The president's views are said to be that in view of developments the administration must move slowly in formulating a definite policy and it may be that he will explain his reasons to congress next week. Before the cabinet meeting today Mr. Harding conferred with Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, author of the peace resolution vetoed by President Wilson. Later the senator was in conference with Chairman Porter of the house foreign affairs committee, which would handle a peace resolution in the house.

It was said that one of the main questions remaining undetermined with regard to the Knox resolution was whether there should be added what is known as section five of a resolution introduced by Senator Knox during the peace negotiations at Paris. This proposed separation of the peace terms and the League of Nations covenant and a general declaration of American policy that the United States would view with concern a world aggrandizement movement by any nation.

The president and republican leaders generally were said to favor inclusion of an amendment for a declaration of policy similar to that of section five. It was stated, however, that this might be dealt with separately.

It was learned today that at the dinner given last night by Senator McCormick of Illinois to former Premier Viviani of France, the question of a policy declaration was discussed. M. Viviani, according to senators in attendance, urged that any American declaration should name Germany specifically, but the republican leaders were said to be agreed that a policy declaration should be in general terms.

Senator New of Indiana, who attended the dinner, said today that adoption of the peace resolution would be followed necessarily by immediate withdrawal of all American troops from German soil. This M. Viviani was said to have opposed because of the possible encouragement it might give Germany.

GYM NIGHT PERFORMANCE

Headmaster Henry H. Harris of the high school announced today that there will be no performance of "Gym night" at the high school Saturday afternoon, as originally planned, but the tickets for the afternoon will be good in the evening. There will also be a performance Friday evening as already arranged.

CITY COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

Approves Contract With Boston Firm for Strengthening of Central Bridge

Votes to Establish License Fee of $2 Per Year for Lodging Houses

Final formalities preparatory to renewing work on the Central bridge were completed by the municipal council at its meeting this morning when it gave approval to a contract entered into by Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy and the Engineering Services & Construction Co. of Boston for the strengthening and construction of the bridge at sum not to exceed $4,740. Mr. Murphy announced that the Boston firm would start work at once.

The council also voted to establish a license fee of $2 per year for lodging housekeepers at the request of the license commission. This is in accordance with a recently enacted state law which gives city councils the right to establish any fee it sees fit for this purpose providing it does not exceed $2 per year. The new fee will become effective at the beginning of the licensing year, May 1.

Meeting in Detail

The meeting was called at 10:05. Mayor Thompson was absent and Commissioner Marchand presided. A hearing was held on the petition of Katz Bros. for a garage license at Brookings and Ayer streets and there was no opposition. Referred to Commissioner Salomon.

Hearings will be held on April 20 on the petitions of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. for pole locations in Bachman street, Parkview avenue and Barkley street and on the petition of the Lowell Electric Light corporation for a pole location in Bassett street.

A petition that Barnaby street be accepted was referred to Commissioner Murphy.

Hearings will be held on April 26 on the petitions of Pantaleon J. Lavaux for a garage at 21 Smith Continued to Page Eleven

RICH WIDOW MISSING

Public Aid Enlisted in Search By Mrs. Annette Norton Rankine

NEW YORK, April 5.—Public aid was enlisted today in the search for Mrs. Annette Norton Rankine, wealthy widow, who has been missing since she left her automobile at the Queensboro bridge approach last Friday afternoon.

Her brother, Benjamin Norton, an official of the Guaranty Trust company, announced that a search of hospitals, with the aid of police and private detectives had failed to reveal a clue.

Since the death of her husband, William Birch Rankine, lawyer and founder of the Niagara Falls Power company, Mrs. Rankine had been subject, members of her family said, to fainting spells. They advanced the theory that she became ill after leaving her automobile and is being cared for in some private residence.

Spicy Testimony in Trial of McKearn Will Case in Superior Court

Asserted Deceased Threatened Suicide to End Relations With the Taylors

That Robert J. McKearn, whose will disposing of a $10,000 estate is being contested in the superior court, asserted previous to his death that he had been compelled to buy clothes for Mrs. Isabella Taylor, the principal beneficiary, was testified to in the trial of the case today by Mrs. Mae F. Fissons of Somerville, a cousin of the deceased. The witness said that the husband of Mrs. Taylor stated that McKearn referred to her as "our wife" and that he had to "dress her like a queen" and that he did not dare to break off the relations with the family for fear of a suit for alimony of affection.

Mrs. Fissons in opening her testimony told of a visit she made to Lowell in an auto in company with her mother in October, 1919. She said that she saw McKearn when she was parking her car at the Middlesex street station, and that the deceased made a joking remark about her parking in the wrong place.

She said that she saw McKearn when she was parking her car at the Middlesex street station, and that the deceased made a joking remark about her parking in the wrong place.

The witness told of sitting in the car with McKearn for a considerable time while her husband went for lunch. She asserted that McKearn said that he was sick and that he was not getting proper care at the Taylor home where he was residing. She said she asked him why he did not leave, and also if he had anything in common with Mrs. Taylor. She said that at first he did not answer, and that later he said "I don't know."

The witness testified that McKearn told her that Mr. Taylor made him knock a store for him, that he had to buy shoes for the children, that the Taylors took all the money he could earn, and that he had to pay for everything used in the house.

Mrs. Fissons said that she suggested Continued to Page Fifteen

M. VIVIANI PLEASED

French Envoy Discusses Purpose of His Visit to U. S.—To Sound Opinion

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Rene Viviani in a statement today to the Associated Press said the purpose of his visit to the United States was to sound public opinion in America and inform the American people of conditions in France.

He expressed gratification at the sentiment favorable to France he had observed in conferences with leading public officials about the "legal and political discussions which involved the treaty of peace."

His statement is the first he has made since his arrival in the United States in which the purposes of his mission are set forth. In connection with his conferences here, M. Viviani said he had authorized no one to state conclusions he had drawn, presumably having reference to despatches published abroad purporting to outline his views.

The statement was carefully prepared in French and the following is a translation:

"M. Viviani, who since his arrival in Washington has been received by numerous notables, has been greatly touched by the cordiality which all have shown to him, a cordiality which has extended through him to France, of which he is the representative. He has heard much and has responded as best he could in view of his mission which is to inform himself concerning American opinion."

"He has observed with deep feeling in the course of the legal and political discussions which involved the treaty of peace, a unanimous sentiment favorable to France, for which in recognition of her past alliance and present difficulty, all America has preserved its affection."

"In the course of these different discussions and for the sole purpose of conversation, M. Viviani has been obliged to examine every hypothesis, even those which his opinion opposes, to the end of reaching with his conferees the elements of good and evil in them all. It should be clearly understood that the only opinion which could be expressed of these is that which he gives expression to himself, and it is equally certain that no one would think of attributing to him conclusions as a result of these discussions which though drawn, are not his own."

"The impression which M. Viviani has brought away from these conferences and which has been no surprise to him, is the disinterested and pure friendship of America, and M. Viviani will never be able adequately to express with what appreciation France regards the noble country which is now his host."

BRITAIN SAYS U. S. INCONSISTENT

Reply to Colby's Protest to San Remo Agreement Made Public

Compares Mesopotamia Case With U. S. Attitude on Oil Interests in Mexico

LONDON, April 5.—American contentions for equality of treatment for citizens of all nations in mandated territory are held by the British government to be "searcely consistent" with the attitude of the United States toward American oil interests in Mexico. The British view is expressed in long reply to Secretary Colby's note of last Nov. 20, which was made public today.

The note, signed by Lord Curzon, secretary of state for foreign affairs, was delivered March 1 and was in answer to Secretary Colby's exceptions to the San Remo agreement between Great Britain and France relating to petroleum resources in Mesopotamia. That agreement, Lord Curzon said, was not fully understood. It appeared, adding that it "aimed at no monopoly or exclusive rights."

The Mesopotamia agreement was said by Lord Curzon to be subject to oil concessions in the Vilayets of Bagdad and Mosul granted to British interests before the war and not to be treated "merely as a matter of abstract principle" without reference to pre-war negotiations. Rights acquired in Palestine by the Standard Oil Co. are no stronger than these British rights, the note reads.

FIND BOMBS IN BERLIN

Mysterious Parcel Discovered in Various Sections of City

—Communists Blamed

BERLIN, April 5.—Mysterious parcels containing explosives have been discovered during the last 24 hours by the police in various sections of Berlin, in private residences, on doorsteps, in hallways and along the tracks of the elevated railroad. Each was supplied with a fuse ready to be ignited.

Police officials declare that the German communists had planned a series of terror here during the recent disorders in central Germany. Their purpose, it is declared, was to frighten the bourgeois classes and encourage their comrades to join in the revolt. Belief is expressed that Max Hora, known as the "German Robespierre," supplied local communists with explosives from central German coal-mining districts and assertion has been made that he personally drew up a plan to spread terror throughout Berlin.

Hora is reported to have been in this city several weeks ago but it is declared that at that time he informed local communists that a new revolt would break out in central Germany and that he expected them to accept the outbreak as a signal for disorders in Berlin. Preparations taken by government authorities, however, prevented the communists from carrying out their part of the plan and it is supposed that they have been getting rid of the explosives entrusted to them.

Memorial to Bancroft CINCINNATI, April 5.—A movement was started to collect a contribution to the late Frank J. Bancroft, former baseball manager of the Cincinnati team, and a pioneer in the national game. The memorial may take the place of a bronze bust at the ball park. The Rev. William A. Sunday, a lifelong friend of Bancroft, contributed the first dollar to the fund.

The impression which M. Viviani has brought away from these conferences and which has been no surprise to him, is the disinterested and pure friendship of America, and M. Viviani will never be able adequately to express with what appreciation France regards the noble country which is now his host.

Frances Boardman Rhymes For You
About Some Features at the Zoo

A little visit to the zoo, my child, is full of all theartner's jokes! This now in store for you. First, note how bird is called the pelican—superior to the lion wear the major portion perhaps, to man, in that he carries of their hair—so the effect is much strange space attached directly to the same as summer furs on sister's face. The public seems inclined to frame. And here's the tiger in his cell; laugh on first behold the giraffe, they named him for the philosopher and, truth to tell, he is bizarre. (Then, yell!) the way the stripes join at the wonder where his tonsils are! Then, seems exceeds the needs of woman's last of all the kangaroo. I wish him to dream! The camel's figure isn't good; very well, don't you? And yet—I'm no doubt he'd change it if he could; just as glad that he's content in the And yet, again, he's what provokes the Arthropods!

"Black K. K. K." Plans Reprisals

DALLAS, Tex., April 5.—Anonymous letters were received by local newspapers and the sheriff of Dallas county, today, stating that an organization of negroes had been formed here under the name of the "Black K. K. K." to retaliate for the whipping and branding of Alex Johnson, negro bell boy, last Friday night. The letter threatens death to any white men who attempt to molest negroes. Sheriff Harston said he did not regard the letter seriously. Johnson was taken into the country Friday night, severely whipped and the letters K. K. K. branded on his forehead with silver nitrate after charges had been filed against him in a local court involving relations with a white woman.

WAS SICK FOR ONE LONG YEAR BUT CINOT MADE HIM WELL AND HAPPY

Mr. C. E. Brierly of 18 Winslow Street, Worcester, Recites His Happy Experience With the Tonic Cinot That Is the Sensation of the Entire New England

Mr. C. E. Brierly says: "I have been sick for over a year with indigestion, sour, acid stomach. Most great doctors for eating, fell ill with me and I had kidney trouble, this distressed me greatly and could find nothing that would help me until I heard and tried CINOT and this remedy has surely accomplished wonders with me as I feel better than I have in years and will publicly endorse it as a great tonic."

CINOT IS BEING DEMONSTRATED IN LOWELL BY AN EXPERT AT DOY'S DRUG STORE AND IS FOR SALE BY ALL GOOD DRUG-GISTS EVERYWHERE.

Loss of Weight
A Danger Signal
Do Not Be Discouraged
But Look for the Cause and Correct It

When you are losing strength and weight and feel badly all over, when your stomach rebels, sleep is broken and your color fades—when you have all or any of these symptoms you need a tonic for the blood. You require a medicine that will benefit the whole system. The blood reaches every part of the body and when it is built up the whole system benefits.

Discouraged men and women will find the story of Mrs. Willard Poole, of No. 137-A Belmont street, Everett, Mass., corroborated if they will only follow the course of treatment which she recommends.

"When I was a young girl," says Mrs. Poole, "I suffered a rapid decline in health due to overstudy and lack of outdoor exercise. I became very thin and frail and my mother worried a great deal over my condition. I had a nibbling appetite and suffered almost constantly from headache and a dull pain across my temples. I was losing weight daily and it seemed as though nothing would build me up.

One day a friend urged my mother to give me Dr. Williams' Pink Pills so mother bought a box.

In a short time after I began the treatment I began to feel better.

Slowly the color returned to my cheeks. My appetite improved, and as my strength and weight returned the headaches and dizzy spells disappeared.

This last spring I felt a little run-down so I tried the remedy again and found it just as good a tonic today as when my mother gave it to me. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

AWAY-UP-NORTH

MR. SEAL FELT A LITTLE ASHAMED

Mrs. Silky Seal said to Mr. Silky Seal: "Oh phew!" Then she yawned. "Why?" said Mr. Silky Seal to his wife. "Because!"

"Humph!" said Mr. Silky Seal. Mrs. Seal got mad. Then she got sad, and real tears trickled down her cheeks. "You're the most understanding person I ever saw," she said. "You don't care a bit whether I'm lonesome or not."

Mr. Seal felt sorry and a little bit ashamed. "Are you lonely, my love?" he asked. "What should you like to do?"

"I hardly know myself," answered Mrs. Seal brightening. "But I get tired of diving and catching fish, and swallowing stones, and running races. Won't you tell me a story about the circus you used to be in?"

Mr. Seal said "Ahem!" a third time, trying to think of some excuse.

ployes is indicated in this paragraph of the New Haven declaration:

"In order to preserve these principles an open shop council is necessary to see that all contracts are placed upon an open shop basis. . . . It is going to be necessary for you in the future to refer to this open shop list . . . and to see that you give them your financial support in their operations."

The new "open shop council" includes everything from the big Winchester arms plant, that at times employs 24,000 workers, to barber shops and bakeries. In it are 50 large manufacturing firms and 34 leading printing houses which earlier in the year discarded union contracts.

The Winchester plant has been employing only 2000 men lately, but added 25 per cent in all departments April 1. Other plants are running with small forces and many thousands of men are out of work.

The "open shop" declaration has stirred the Connecticut state federation of labor to activity. Leaders of union labor say they are glad the issue has been brought out in the open, and that they are ready for any lockout or other steps employers may take.

SHOES FROM SHARKSKIN

Hides of Sea Fish Are Now Being Used in Lieu of Cow Leather

FORT MYERS, Fla., April 5.—Sister of devilfish dancing pumps. Dad in sharkskin shoes. Mother in stingray slippers.

These things will soon come to pass. A plant at Sanibel, Fla., is making them now.

These fish, heretofore useless to man, are being caught and brought to the plant. Their skins are tanned. The tanning process was invented by Alfred Ehrlich, president and producer of the Ocean Leather Co.

Ehrlich has become wealthy by selling the European and South American rights to his process.

His company has plants at Brunswick, Ga., and in North Carolina and plants others at Key West and New Orleans.

Shoe cases and other leather goods will be made. Shark livers are used for the manufacture of a medicinal oil.

"SECOND NATIONAL" BANK ARRIVES

The Second National Bank has arrived.

You remember the "First National," of course? This little and sick depositary has been a boon to women for generations.

The "Second National" was founded by Mrs. Mauds Andrews of Seattle, as the direct result of a robbery.

A year ago Mrs. Andrews, making a transcontinental trip, awoke one morning to find that a thief had visited her berth while she slept. Pocket book and money were both gone.

It was embarrassing, of course. But out of that situation came a determination that the next time she traveled her money would be safe.

So on her next trip, she fashioned a small pocket out of a special material and sewed it on the inside of her corset, into that she put her money, and snapped it securely with a clasp. Then she hoped for robbery. But none came.

The safety pocket worked so well that Mrs. Andrews obtained a patent on it and now is manufacturing them on a large scale in Seattle.

SOUNDS FAMINE ALARM

Senator Ladd Sees Peril Unless United States Gives Farmers Aid

(Special to The Sun)
WASHINGTON, April 5.—"Either congress must give to agriculture the same attention it gives to commerce and industry, or we're going to face hunger in this country."

That is the message brought to the United States senate by E. F. Ladd, new Non-Partisan league senator from North Dakota.

The problems that the North Dakota farmers have been trying to handle within that state through the Non-Partisan league, Ladd says, "must have directly the question of finances.

"Put the farmer in position to be his own financial manager, to market his products systematically and economically, and the crisis of middlemen which now so largely increase the prices of foodstuffs can be shortened.

The result would be a lower figure to the consumer and a reasonable price to the producer.

Most Organize

"Transportation and an uneconomic system of distributing further complicates and increases costs."

"The producer and consumer must be brought closer together. Congress must be made to see and realize it."

"If the consumer and producer will pull together they can have the cost of living."

Ladd is a quiet-spoken, intellectual man of 62, who has spent his life in studying agricultural problems and teaching farming. He has been for the last five years head of the state agricultural college in North Dakota.

"This marketing problem involves

GAVE $60,000 FOR IRISH RELIEF

Great Theatrical Performance

—Elks Gave $1000 in Picture Auction

Archbishop Hayes Gave $5000—Great Gathering of Stars

NEW YORK, April 5.—The Metropolitan Opera House was jammed to the outer doors yesterday afternoon for a real all-star benefit performance given for the Irish relief fund under the auspices of the theatrical division of the national committee. More than $60,000 was raised, and groups of Irish nurses swelled the day's total with contributions flung into their hats by those in the Opera House and passersby.

George M. Cohan and William Collier appeared twice, once in a diverting song and dance skit, again as auctioneers. In both instances they made a hit with the crowd. As auctioneer, Cohan weaned $1000 out of Mother Lodge, B.P.O.E., for the framed original of Henry Clive's "Irish Girl" on the cover of the souvenir program. Collier got $300 out of the same Lodge for a signature program, and $200 from Dennis McSweeney for a second souvenir program.

Later in the afternoon Archbishop Hayes arrived and subscribed $5000. He said he did not know where he was going to get this sum, but that it would be given. The archbishop made a short address in which he thanked "the men and women of stoneland for their generosity" and assured them that he was their friend, always ready and willing to assist them when the opportunity presented.

The players volunteered their services and gave probably one of the most extraordinary variety entertainments witnessed on the stage in recent years.

The performance was under the direction of Joseph D. Maxwell, head of the theatrical division of the national committee. Patrick Casey was the stage manager. The musical program was directed by John McGhee. The Symphony orchestra was in the pit. Laurette Taylor and Gordon Ashe were there, so was Pat Rooney and his jazz band. Willie and Eugene Howard came from the Winter garden.

Other performers were Grace Noland, vaudeville's song bird; Paul Whiteman's orchestra from the Palace, Royal, Van and Schools from Springfield, Cohan's comedians from "Mary at the Knick-Knack," Sam Bernard, Channing Oldo, the New York Police, Glee club, Bugs Baer, Henry Clive, Tommy Gray, Bally Watson and Tom McNamara were there "by permission of themselves."

The principals and ensemble from "Irene" at the Vanderbilt appeared. S. J. and Allan McQuade, Irish tenor, and Mme. Narelle, the Australian singer, Walter C. Kelly told funny stories, there were selections from "The Rose Girl," the Four Nelsons from the Hippodrome gave their unique performances and Victor Herbert entertained with his wife, Andrew Mack, Tex Eyck and Max Riley, William Booth, Harry Carroll and his company and Albert Spalding, violinist, helped make an afternoon of it that completed a bill of remarkable excellence.

LOWELL DAY AT WOMEN'S CLUB

It was Lowell day at the Middlesex Women's Club yesterday and only Lowell talent was employed in presenting the program of the regular Monday afternoon meeting. The meeting was under the auspices of the literature department with its chairman, Miss Mabel A. Seaverdson, presiding.

Miss Maudie Lancaster read an interesting and instructive paper on Thomas Wright's "Life of John Payne," and "The Life of Lafcadio Hearn," written by Mrs. Thomas H. Elliott and read by Miss Alice Stickney was also highly meritorious. Miss Mary G. Stevens talked entertainingly on "Modern Techniques in Fiction" and, as usual, her remarks bore the stamp of originality. She gave over a considerable share of her time to a discussion of "Main Street," the new Sinclair Lewis book.

FRIENDS OF IRISH FREEDOM MEETING

John J. Spillane of New Haven, national vice president of the Friends of Irish Freedom, addressed the Lowell branch at a largely attended meeting in Hibernian Hall Sunday evening and made a strong plea for the relief of the suffering in Ireland. He said that the Friends of Irish Freedom had no animosity toward other organizations formed to aid the independence movement in Ireland. A communication from Fred H. Rourke, supervisor of the relief fund campaign in northern Middlesex county, asking that a delegate be sent to a meeting of the committee in charge of the drive, was received. Following the address of Mr. Spillane an excellent program of entertainment was carried out.

AMEND THE WORKMEN'S FEELS DUTY BOUND COMPENSATION LAW

TO TELL EVERYONE

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, April 5.—By a vote of 117 to 64, the house yesterday afternoon substituted in place of an adverse committee report a bill amending the workmen's compensation law by providing that if an employee is incapacitated for a period of more than twenty-eight days, compensation shall date from the day of the injury.

Under the law as it reads at present, compensation begins on the eleventh day after the injury, no matter for how long the employee is incapacitated.

Rep. Abbott of Haverhill, chairman of the judiciary committee, told the house that passage of the bill would add $1,000,000 annually to the expense of administering the workmen's compensation law, an expense which the insurance companies will transfer to employers, and employers in turn will pass along to the purchasers of their goods.

He pointed out that because of the workmen's compensation act Massachusetts employers are paying on account of injuries to their workmen ten times as much as they paid under the old employees' liability law. It is only a question of time, he said, when these additional burdens placed upon employers cannot be shifted to the purchasing public, because employers in other states do not have to bear them, and consequently they will be able, if burdens continue to increase, to undersell Massachusetts manufacturers.

When that time comes, he said, the cotton industry will go south and the shoe industry will be forced to move west.

On the twenty-eight day bill, however, his advice was unheeded, but the house sustained his objections and rejected another bill, the purpose of which was to reduce the ten day waiting period to six—that is providing that an injured employee should begin to receive compensation on the seventh day after his injury.

The house spent an entire session debating workmen's compensation bills of various kinds, all of which had been reported adversely by the judiciary committee. At the time of adjournment a bill providing for the establishment of a state fund, and the barring of all private insurance companies from participation in workmen's compensation business, was under discussion.

The senate finally had a roll-call on the bill repealing the compulsory vaccination law with respect to children in the public schools, and the bill was passed by a vote of 20 to 15. This is the third vote on the bill in the senate, but the first time that a roll-call has been had. The bill will now go to the house, where its defeat is predicted by members of the medical fraternity.

Capitalization of the premiums of gas and electric light companies, which has occupied so much of the attention of the general court this year, was again debated in the senate yesterday, on the question whether the recess study of the matter shall be made by the department of public utilities alone, or by that department in connection with a commission of legislators. Finally the whole matter was laid up on the table.

After having reflected it last week, the senate again considered yesterday the bill providing that school teachers, who are threatened with dismissal shall be entitled to a public hearing on the charges against them. After a brief debate the bill was passed to be engrossed. It had previously passed the house, and will now go to the governor.

Governor Cox yesterday submitted his first executive veto, requiring without his approval a bill providing that dealers in ice shall sell their commodity in whatever amount the purchaser may request. He said no public demand for the legislation had appeared, and in the absence of such demand it would be folly to discard the present regulation of sales of ice, which has been the result of years of legislative effort.

Mr. Gerard explained how that rumor started. He said: "Ever since I came back to this country some German sneaks and traitors have charged me with betraying Sir Roger Casement. I want an opportunity to deny that lie. That lie was started in Germany."

The former ambassador claimed that the rumor was started by an American, by the name of Emerson, who while connected with the national guard in New York was in the pay of Count von Bernstorff and whose passage I succeeded in having revoked, and who is still in Germany and afraid to come back to America."

That was only an incident—some what irrelevant—in a wonderful meeting to which at least 10,000 persons tried to gain admittance. The doors had to be closed soon after 7 o'clock, as the house was packed. It was a non-political and non-sectarian meeting—"simply an American meeting for the relief of the suffering women and children of Ireland." Senator Walsh said, with the qualification that it was naturally started by the American citizens of Irish blood in this country."

No money was collected at the meeting, although Fr. Danahy of Newton presented the chairman with a check for $1113 from his parish.

On the platform were about 100 prominent citizens of Irish blood—business men and professional men.

The stage was decorated with Ameri-organ prelude and led a chorus in the singing of a few classic songs.

HOW TO MAKE MONEY

MRS. A. J. STASNY

"Get into business for yourself and plug" is Mrs. A. J. Stasny's formula for making money. She is numbered among American women making $50,000 or more a year. Five years ago she and her husband invested their last $75 in a popular song. They used their tiny New York apartment as stock room and office. Now their popular song business has grown until it has branches in 18 cities in America and Europe.

MEMORIES OF OLD DAYS
ON MISSISSIPPI REVIVED

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 5.—Memories of old days on the Mississippi, when stately packets piled in the passenger traffic are revived by the resumption of traffic between Pittsburgh, Pa., and this city by way of the Ohio. Barges have carried freight traffic on the great river for many years since the packets were driven out by railroad competition. In the days of Mark Twain the Mississippi packets were celebrated for their "eats," their famous tastes, their pilots and even for their poker games.

It used to be no uncommon sight to see from 15 to 30 passengers vessels, from the palatial packet to the weather-beaten tramp leave the New Orleans landings daily for up-river points. Coming of the railroads with quick service for perishable cargo, many lines almost paralleling the river between the most important landings, caused river traffic to lose its prestige. Pilots began sending cotton and other non-perishable freight by rail and the tons of the river packets were fewer and fewer as the years went on. Plantation landings rotted away. Pilots began to buy railroad tickets instead of steamer passage and made their plans to spend the difference in time in New Orleans instead of on the boats. Planters moved to town, social life in the country began to wane—in short, country dwellers became farmers and plantations became farms. It was romantic to be a planter, but much more profitable to be a farmer.

In this directly affected passenger traffic, a river voyage in the olden days was a pleasurable affair if the pilots did not blow up or the vessel hit a snag and sank. Before the Grand Reunion by the Natchez and the Robert E. Lee, two of the largest of the river packets, so keen was the rivalry that early in the seventies it was planned to have them race from New Orleans to St. Louis. No passengers or freight was carried and for weeks the competing race was the chief topic of conversation along the river. The Robert E. Lee was in command of Capt. Cannon while Capt. Leathers was master of the Natchez. No stops were made except for fuel. The trip to St. Louis was made in just a few hours over three days, an unheard of record then. It was made in just a few hours over with the Robert E. Lee the winner by a small margin.

Another famous race between the White Rose of Memphis and the Grand Republic ended in disaster. After racing upstream for hours in a "neck and neck" contest, the White Rose struck a snag and sank. Before the Grand Reunion of that form of amusement, and last, but not least the antics of the negro roustabouts all combined to make things pleasant for the traveler.

Coffee in bed was the rule, then a breakfast of bacon, eggs, waffles, pancakes started the day. At noon there was fruit, fish, roast vegetables, the ever-present coffee and whatever dessert the cook had in mind for the meal. The feast of the day came in the early evening with creole gumbo (if the cook happened to fall from New Orleans as most of them did—fried fish, roast fowl with baked or candied yams, beef or pork, fruit in abundance, dessert and "small black" coffee with brandy. It wasn't meaty, but quantity that made the steamer bill of fare famous.

In the boat of the afternoon, behind shielding mosquito bars the passengers, if he so desired, could quaff mint juleps or sip corn whiskey cocktails, not to mention the old fashioned toddies, made with sugar, water, pineapples and orange juice and, of course, whiskey. The old-timers here, with scant stocks of liquor and facing the coming years with visions of nut sundaes, never tired of telling the younger generation of the old "hard liquor" days of the river steamboats.

The card games were for big stakes. Veterans vouch for the truth of stories of a planter embarking in Mississippi with "a plantation with 200 negroes" and disembarking at the Canal street landing in New Orleans with only some bills of lading for something he no longer owned.

But those days are gone. If plans for those interested in river traffic bear fruit the modern steamers will eliminate gambling, carry well drilled crews and furnish modern meals at modern prices.

In advertising sailings of vessels of the older days the name of the first mate always was given. The first mate became known up and down the river either as good or bad by the manner in which they handled the roustabouts. A weak man did not last long as first mate.

Saturday was usually the sailing day for up-river packets from this port. There was great rivalry between boat owners and crews and usually from one to a dozen boat races were pulled off as the vessels chugged up the river. It was then that boilers blew up with marked frequency.

The most famous of these races was run by the Natchez and the Robert E. Lee, two of the largest of the river packets. So keen was the rivalry that early in the seventies it was planned to have them race from New Orleans to St. Louis. No passengers or freight was carried and for weeks the competing race was the chief topic of conversation along the river. The Robert E. Lee was in command of Capt. Cannon while Capt. Leathers was master of the Natchez. No stops were made except for fuel. Most gratifying was the result. It relieved my liver and stomach trouble, cleaned up my yellowish complexion and put new blood in my body. public could clear a nearby bend her boilers exploded, killing a number of the crew.

After the war between the states steamboats had been perfected to a higher degree and river traffic became more important. While most of the boats used wood for fuel, getting it from well established woodyards along the river, still they made good time and business was flourishing.

While as a general rule the boats were operated independently by their owners even as early as 1850 there were several lines operating many large passenger vessels. The largest and best known was the Anchor Line, which operated between New Orleans and St. Louis, making regular schedules, while another line was operating between St. Louis and St. Paul. The city of New Orleans and City of Baton Rouge were the largest and best known vessels of the Anchor line. The largest side-wheeler operated on the river was the Republic.

In addition to the Anchor line there were several companies operating from New Orleans to Natchez, Vicksburg, Greenville and "The Bend." They usually carried a hundred or so passengers and large freight cargoes. They were mostly side-wheelers. From St. Louis one line operated as far north as Fort Benton, Montana.

Freight from up the river included flour, pork, beef, furniture, hay, cotton, rice and sugar. The largest cargo of cotton ever brought down was loaded by the Henry Frank and consisted of 9000 bales. The cotton was not compressed and the record has stood.

All the old boats were built on the same general pattern—broad hulls, with large spacious cabins above and with wide guards, usually piled high with freight. They were almost always painted white and each was equipped with a whistle slightly different from the others. It was quite an accomplishment, or was so regarded by negroes at the various landings to be able to distinguish the distant whistling and call the name of the boat.

Promoters now are figuring whether human nature has changed from the olden days, whether a person with no content to idle the time away on long trips which he could make in a fraction of the time by rail; whether they "have time" to take quiet pleasure.

Freight rates, interstate commerce, commission hearings, uniform bills of lading and other prosaic commercial matters figure in the traffic side of the question. The passenger business is regarded as a gamble.

It's the composite answer gleaned from all sorts of sources, including railroad, oil, banking and commercial men qualified to speak.

Mexico had probably a smaller debt in proportion to resources than any other country. President Obregon has asked Mr. Morgan to arrange terms for its payment.

"Only after you are recognized," was the answer he got.

Recognition First

Obviously Mexico can't pay before being recognized.

But some day soon recognition will come and terms for the refunding of Mexico's foreign debt will be arranged.

Money for this refunding will come from the United States through the house of Morgan.

Then what?

Railroads will go back into the hands of their foreign owners. They will be put back into shape at an enormous cost. That will mean large construction and material contracts.

More capital will be released for work in Mexico and many enterprises that have been wiped out or abandoned will spring into life again.

Cattle ranges will be restocked. Ranch tracts will be cut to provide titles and lumber for a thousand uses.

The richest agricultural lands on the continent will be colonized largely through the genius of American farm experts.

The sale of American farm machinery will increase by leaps and bounds.

Mines now closed will reopen in a few months. Mexicans will all be down to work and there will be a demand in Mexico for American goods of all classes.

As reconstruction grows larger will increase and good roads will be built to widen the market for American automobiles.

That is the way the experts in Mexico will pray.

And it all hinges on recognition.

COST OF LIVING

Union leaders, in negotiations with employers, see now stressing the importance of the statistics announced by the U. S. Department of Labor in its report on February food price.

The figures showed a drop of a per cent in the average retail cost of food during February, as compared with January.

However, February costs were still 63 per cent higher than in February, 1913, the last normal year.

And particular significance is attached to the fact that retail consumers are getting only a small part of the wholesale drop in food costs.

ALL JOIN IN EFFORTS TO HELP STARVING CHINESE

PEKING, April 5.—Never have the Chinese people and their government made greater efforts to meet a national disaster than they are now making to feed the hungry of the famine stricken districts, observers here.

When relief measures began, President Hsu Shih-chang gave the first big impetus to Chinese relief measures with a contribution of $100,000 and he has given $20,000 to the national relief drive, which has raised several hundred thousand dollars.

Chinese students and numerous organizations of farmers, business men and workers in various industries have contributed their efforts to aid this drive.

Chinese civil employees are giving 20 per cent of their salaries. Taxes on railway tickets yield a large sum monthly, all devoted to famine relief. The government is now collecting $750,000 monthly by means of a sur-tax.

Chinese provincial and city governments in the region south of the famine area are providing work for the starving.

The central government is building a highway 90 miles long in Shantung and all victims in that district are given employment.

Towns and villages in every part of Manchuria have organized relief committees, and a fund of $200,000 has been raised by the residents. An entire district in the famine area has been taken over by the Manchurians for care until the next harvest.

The Chinese government is guaranteeing free transportation of supplies and relief workers, with priority for all grain shipments for the famine sufferers.

"Tug days" in this city, Hankow, Shanghai, Canton, Tientsin and Peking have produced funds. In Peking 4000 volunteers, tagged more than 400,000 persons.

Fairs have not stopped at organized meetings. Personal sacrifice is general. Young girls have banded in many cities under an agreement to deny themselves certain food. Students at one of the large universities asked that all meat be taken from their meals and the money saved devoted to relief work. New Year feasts were abandoned in many parts of the republic. Vegetables and cotton are planted, even in the presidential palace grounds instead of the usual rare flowers and plants.

The heat from a pound of coal, if there is no waste, can raise 12 gallons of water from freezing to the boiling point.

WOMEN NOT YET ON EVEN FOOTING WITH MEN

CHICAGO, April 5.—Granting of woman suffrage has not yet given women full rights with men in a large part of the United States. It is indicated by a survey of the middle and southwest made by the Associated Press. In only a quarter of this territory, it appears, do women stand unbreakably on an even footing with men.

The discriminations where they exist, however, for the most part small. The chief disability lies in the right to sit on juries.

The stumbling block in this case is generally a constitutional provision that juries must be males. Removal of the disqualification has been urged in a number of legislatures this winter.

Other exceptions women are under in various states include these:

In Iowa they cannot sit in the legislature.

In Wisconsin, they cannot serve as a legislative employee.

In North Dakota, they do not pay poll tax.

In Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri and South Dakota women are regarded as barred from jury duty by constitutional provision of statute.

In Nebraska, although an Omaha woman recently sat on a jury, existing law makes this irregular. In Kentucky, a portion at least of the circuit judges believe that the use of the masculine in the statute does not bar women from jury duty, as women have served on a circuit court jury in Jessamine county and on both petit and grand juries in Laurel county. There has been no opinion by the Kentucky attorney general or the courts.

In Minnesota, the attorney general has held that women cannot serve on juries, but several district court judges have held otherwise and admitted them to juries. In Illinois until the supreme court rules definitely, judges are permitted to determine for themselves whether women shall serve as jurors.

The North Dakota legislature recently passed a law permitting women to serve on juries but not requiring such service.

In Indiana the legislature has just removed a discrimination by enacting that the father and mother jointly, if living, shall be the natural guardians of their children, instead of the father alone.

Iowa women contemplate efforts to have their inability to sit in the legislature removed through an approaching constitutional convention. Otherwise they enjoy full rights with men.

JUDGE CHASE QUILTS "L" PROBE

BOSTON, April 5.—The special committee of the legislature appointed to investigate the charges of irregular conduct on the part of members of the 1918-19 general court in connection with the passage of legislation affecting the Boston Elevated Railway met yesterday afternoon and formally accepted Judge Frederic H. Chase's withdrawal as counsel. The committee considered the names of several practicing attorneys, but did not decide upon anyone to whom the appointment might be offered.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE: Chile Salsi returned to Keith's theatre yesterday after an absence of nine years, but the long lapse failed to dim the memory of many of those in the audience who recalled the time when he was a boy, a page boy, and he was given a big hand when he made his entry. He is the same old impudent son of ruff characters, from the minister of the little country church to the village cut-up who takes pride in the fact that he hangs about the public poolroom.

Salsi opens with a bit of character work on the Sunday morning services in a Mark Twain volume. Especially funny is his description of the Sunday school benefit "With steam, which is to take place on the following Friday evening."

The other characterizations are excellent, especially that of the Lenten-correct player who must go through a series of nerve-racking contortions even to sit down. Salsi has something human about his work that will appeal to everybody. He is the ordinary impersonator; he is Chile Salsi.

Jim Toney and Ann Norman in "You Know What I Mean" are entertainers of more than average ability and every bit of their work went over big last evening. Jim is a born comedian with a facial expression most agile and a way of throwing his body around that makes him look like a dancing master who essays an eccentric dance. He and Miss Norman talk away at each other at a parlous pace and keep their audience in an uproar. Incidentally he has been no quin in Laurel county.

Frankel Deinhardt is an imitator of female characters, the right will obtain in the hours so colorfully gathered by Julian Eltinge. Early in his act he makes it known that he is a man but immediately goes back into character and you forget that he is not a real woman. His impersonations include Mr. Gifford, Geraldine Farrar, Ruth St. Denis and several other favorites. The "Princess" was of that type of play that never grows old. Year in and year out it was played throughout the country, holding its own as an old reliable to attract at the box office. And now that it has been done in picture form there is no reason why it should not be as lively as ever.

The picturization adds all the appeal of the play. The folks in it are simple, human everyday beings; people of small town outlook who have elementary problems to solve. They are thrust into many smashing dramatic situations, but they catch the best of them and they are held in great though they move curiously to an anticipated outcome.

In the telling of the story the stress is laid upon the pathos, though that element is nicely blended with comedy relief. In point of technicalities the story has been particularly well done. The story is placed in individual scenes, each with its own character. The plot is simple, but the scenes are varied.

Harry and Kitty Kelley present an amusing bit of jollity in "A Taxibogue." Harry is the aggressive taxi driver and Kitty the young woman who answers calls for machines. They chatter away amusingly and Harry sings appealingly.

"When It's Apple Blossom Time" and "That Old Irish Mother of Mine."

Bernard and Garry, "southern symphonies" are burnt-cork comedians, who sing incessantly but well and happily steer clear of bantering. Their specialty is music and they do nothing but specialize.

Dolevole opens the bill well in a night-wire and singing offering and Stewart and Mercer are aerial performers of merit. The Kinogram News Weekly shows views taken at the funeral of Cardinal Gibbons while Topics of the Day is up to its usual standard. A special feature for this week is a film on accident prevention.

RIALTO THEATRE

After having been a stage attraction for so many years that one lost count of the number, "The Parish Priest" is revived again in picture form and offered to lovers of the screen productions by Herman J. Garfield. The picture, with William Desmond as the leading role, opened a three day engagement yesterday afternoon and simply sold out. The audience intensely interested in the same manner as did Dan Sully in the stage success of olden days. In fact, the screen version of the story seems much

No Puffed-Up, Burning, Tender, Aching Feet—No Corns or Callouses.

"Tiz" makes sore, burning, tired feet fairly dance with delight. Away go the aches and pains, the corns, callouses, blisters, bunions and glibblains.

"Tiz" draws out the aches and pains that pull up your feet. No matter how hard you work, how long you remain on your feet, "Tiz" brings restful foot comfort. "Tiz" is musical, grand, wonderful for tired, aching, swollen, aching feet. Ah! how comfortable, how happy you feel. Your feet just feel for joy; shoes never hurt or seem tight.

more attractive than the written lines, for Desmond's infinite character of the priest stands out as one of the big character roles of the year. In addition to the leading and supporting parts in the program, also, created Butch De Roche, a musical continuation of "The Son of Tarzan," a Jimmie Jimmie comedy, "The Trouble Hunt," a Ford weekly and the Fox News. It is one of the best balanced and most varied bills shown in the theatre for many a day and pleases everybody who sees it.

THE STRAND THEATRE

"The Branding Iron" is the big attraction at the Strand theatre for the first three days of the week. This wonderful drama is a Reginald Barker production, which features Barbara Castleton in the title role. It is a truly good picture. In one that will appeal to all. Another very good number on the program is "The Greater Claim," a story of love and romance in which Alice Lake, a local favorite sustains the leading part. Then there is a very amusing comedy and current events that are both educational and interesting. The comedy is good and the musical numbers by Miss Euse Hobbins are very enjoyable.

"The Branding Iron" unfolds the story of a young girl, "Joan Carner," who in her younger days was imprisoned in a mountain cabin by her father and was never permitted to see or enjoy the outer world. One night while her drunken father is more intoxicated than ever, she leaves the cabin and takes refuge in a ranch house in the valley. There she meets Pierre Landis, who woos her and marries her. The father later turns up and warns the husband that his wife has inherited the weakness of her mother, and develops the germ of jealousy in the husband's heart. A young preacher of the district, who becomes interested in the girl, is prompted to stay to teach her to read and write and to sing good books. When Pierre later finds the two together he ties his young wife to a hedgepost and brands her with a hot iron. The rest of the story is mighty interesting.

In "The Greater Claim" Miss Lake sustains the role of Mary Smith, a fully beautified woman who marries the young son of a man who has been a drunkard of short duration, however, for the young man is kidnapped and taken to sea by ruffians. In the meantime the father of the young husband has the marriage annulled. When the boy reaches his 21st birthday he plunges from the boat into sea and manages to reach shore safely and returns home to find that his wife has returned to the village. She is a child of 12, who has been a burden to Mary and poverty compels her to accept the aid of two crooks to get money from the child's father, with the result that the child is adopted by the grandfather. Mary, disgruntled, becomes a nurse for the care of the child. What happens afterwards is best told on the screen.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Madame X," presented by the Lowell Players at the Opera House yesterday, is a good play. It is told in a simple, direct manner, but the story is told with what we do not see so very often now-a-days, a prologue. It has single speeches of almost interminable length. It is a picture of suffering, remorse and misery with scarcely a single dash of humor.

Yet it is a play that grips the emotions and holds them tense and anxious from start to finish. It is a play that goes straight to the heart with its appeal to the passions and the weaknesses that are inherent in all humanity.

The story is of a wife, who, in a moment of madness, deserts a loving husband, and her infant child, to flee in the night with her lover. This is the beginning of the drama, as it is told in the prologue, the first act.

Madame X., the teller in her father's court, has been ruined by Parr in a stock transaction, leaves her home in disgust and takes up settlement work.

Parr objects to his son, Preston, marrying Kate Marcy, a salmagundi and chasing away her love for Preston. He induces her to give up her marriage project. She is left destitute, disgraced, penniless and discharged. Disgraced, she becomes a frequenter of dives and with Preston learns of his father's action, he leaves home and gradually sinks into the depths.

Meanwhile, Hodder, the rector, considers that his pastoral work is failing because of the hypocrisy of his parishioners. He decides to make a poor to attend his church. He meets Alison and becomes interested in her work among the poor. He learns of the suffering caused by his hypocritical parishioners and when he next en-

30 LIVES LOST IN STORM PLANE FALLS INTO CROWD

-8 PERSONS KILLED

Great Property Damage Also Caused Along Southern
Coast of Japan

TOKIO, April 5—(By the Associated Press)—Great property damage was done and 30 lives were lost in a storm which swept the southern coast of Japan on Sunday night. Telephone and telegraph lines are prostrated throughout the southern part of the empire. Tokio is still in darkness and a number of houses were destroyed.

The storm was especially severe in the harbor of Yokohama. The Japanese steamers Alabama Mary and Atlan Maru dragged their anchors and went ashore. The former was about to sail for Seattle and had her passengers aboard.

Belated despatches report inundations in many prefectures. Many houses were demolished by the wind. A naval cutter capsized near the port of Nagoya, and an officer and eight bluejackets were drowned. Eight workmen were buried when a tunnel collapsed near Fukushima. The Ito, Hida and Tenryu rivers in the province of Gifu, overflowed and 3000 houses were flooded. The famous bridge across the Tenryu river was destroyed.

The American steamer Golden State weathered the gale and arrived here yesterday. Numerous regents were given her officers and men, the return of American shipping to the Pacific being welcomed by officials at Yokohama.

METHODS TO EXPAND
AMERICAN TRADE

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Development of methods for expanding American trade both foreign and domestic under close co-operation between the government and business formed the general purpose today of the first of a series of conferences between Secretary Hoover and special committee of five of the chamber of commerce of the United States. The committee was appointed at Mr. Hoover's request to co-operate in working out a plan of closer co-operation between American industry and the department of commerce.

In addition to a general survey of world trade conditions, the conference was prepared to take up specifically the matter of appointing committees representing all the great industries of the nation to co-operate with the department in plans for the revival of business in their respective fields.

CHAMPION LEAPER

Geo. M. Kelly of Circus
Fame Is Dead

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y., April 5—Geo. M. Kelly, known throughout the world as the champion leaper, died at the city hospital here last night, aged 39 years. During his career, he had been connected with the larger circus combinations of the country and gave exhibitions before the crowned heads of Europe. He was the first man to leap over eight horses, camels and elephants lined up in the circus ring, doing a triple somersault.

PLAN TO VISIT
WOUNDED SOLDIERS

The ladies' auxiliary of the American Legion is about to conduct a series of visits to wounded soldiers now in Massachusetts hospitals. Announcement of the details of this plan was made last evening at a meeting of the local branch, by Miss Anna Marion, of Waltham, president of the Middlesex county division of the auxiliary. Miss Marion, who was in Lowell for the purpose of conferring with local leaders of the body, presided at the gathering last evening, which was held in the Burton street headquarters. Next Sunday, she stated, the Lowell welfare and entertainment committee is scheduled to visit the men now at Groton. Mrs. William H. Merrill, chairman of the enterprise, has issued a request that local people provide the four five machines which are needed. Miss Marion, who was a guest at Mrs. Merrill's home during her stay in this city, was introduced to the meeting by the president, Mrs. Carroll Hewitt, of the auxiliary here.

Letter failed to appear in court this morning to explain why he has not paid his $100 fine, which was imposed and extensions granted by the court. A capias was issued for the defendant's arrest. Swiftord, about two months ago, was fined $75 for improper conduct, was granted an extension, but again failed to appear in court, was remanded, and told to appear the next day, failing which he was fined $25 a week. Renewal was granted, but not only has the man been missing at the office of the probation officer, but today the defendant did not deign to appear and explain to Judge Bright the reason for his dereliction, although it is understood that he is still in town.

Harlan C. Stark, 11 years a soldier, and Alex. Szwel, 6 years a soldier, were up on drunkenness charges today. Officer Lapan testified that he had the invalid's daughter, and the restricted to steer them homeward last evening, but they preferred to make merry on the city streets. Szwel entertaining himself by tearing down billboards in front of a local theatre. Judge Bright discussed the advisability of sending them to the pen, on the ground of maliciously damaging property. Stark protested at this, denying having had part in the unseemliness of Szwel. The reply of the court was, "Evil associations corrupt good manners." Both defendants pleaded guilty, and in fact admitted whatever misconduct they may have committed to the fact that they were "very drunk." With a warning, they were freed, their cases being placed on file. The case of Mary Lamphier, also charged with drunkenness, was continued on request of counsel, with the consent of Jerome Dooley, who made the arrest. The case of the Lamphier woman, who pleaded not guilty, will be heard April 12. Adeline Hubert, an elderly woman, charged with drunkenness, was freed, the case being placed on file. Board of health officials, however, visited her Salem abode, and reported the finding of filthy conditions. An invalid woman for whom she had been caring will be removed by the invalid's daughter, and the residence will be fumigated.

City Council Holds Meeting

Street and Kathleen G. Drewett for a garage at 9 Fifth street.

An order was adopted to lay out and accept Linwood street from Milland street to Forrest street.

Commissioners Murphy and Marcella reported favorably on the petitions of the Lowell Electric Light corporation for pole locations in Cumberland road and Butman road, and the accompanying orders were adopted.

License Fee Established

John J. Flaherty, clerk of the license commission, spoke of the recently enacted law providing for the charging of license fees for lodging houses not exceeding $2, providing the municipal council takes action on the matter. Unless the council fixes the fee, the license commission can charge no fee.

Mr. Flaherty said that the commission hoped that the council would establish the maximum fee of $2. He said that the lodging houses require much attention, even more than restaurants and lunch carts, where a 4¢ fee is charged. Police inspectors have to make frequent visits to some of the lodging houses, he said.

Last year there were issued 215 lodging house licenses. This would mean that more than $400 would be added to the city's revenues annually, if the maximum fee were established.

On motion of Commissioner Murphy, it was voted to take the communication on the matter from the license commission from the table and it was then voted to establish a fee of $2 per year for all lodging house licenses issued by the license commission, the same to be effective at the beginning of the next license year, May 1.

Commissioner Salmon reported favorably on the following petitions and the license were granted:

Merrimack Motor company, garage and gasoline, 111 Chelmsford.

Goukin Furniture company, garage and gasoline, rear 65 Prescott.

H. A. Bissonnette, garage, Cheever and Tucker streets.

The council elected Dr. Walter A. Sherman animal inspector for the year beginning April 1, 1921, subject to the approval of the state authorities.

Commissioner Murphy introduced an order to borrow $20,000 for sidewalk contract between the Engineering Service and Construction Co. of Boston and the commission of streets and highways, for the furnishing of labor and materials for the strengthening and construction of Central bridge at a cost of $54,740. Commissioner Murphy said that the contract was to be given up by the law department, that the necessary bond had been furnished and that the Boston firm was ready to start work the minute the contract was signed. It was signed by the four members of the council present at this morning's meeting.

Adjourned at 10:55 until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

PRINTING THE NEWS

To print the news is the purpose and province of reputable newspapers. To print it as fully and completely as possible—to give a reasonably accurate picture of the daily unfoldment of life in Ireland seems to be without much foundation except that opportunity the British premier is beginning to see the absurdity of his position in trying to stamp out the spirit of nationality and religious intolerance by giving one-fifth of the Irish people in North East Ulster a parliament of their own and an equal voice in all Irish national affairs with the other three provinces.

It is alleged that full dominion would be the basis of settlement and that had been offered in the last place. It would have been graciously accepted. In 1911 a measure was accepted that did not go quite so far, but the situation has changed; the people have been driven to desperation and it is not at all likely that they will now make any compromise just because it becomes necessary to Lloyd George's political fortunes to settle the question as soon as possible lest the trouble spread to England and cause a political upheaval in which he and his already tottering ministry might be betrayed. But Premier George is undoubtedly the most resourceful and cunning politician in Europe, and it is not safe to predict that disaster will overtake him although the indications point that way at the present time.

COL. HARVEY'S FITNESS

"Oh, yes, Col. Harvey will go to London as ambassador from the United States and he is likely to hold his own with anybody who may run about of him at least in the public prints. How he sizes up as a diplomat we cannot say; but we surmise he settles all his fights with the pen, or rather the typewriter, for Harvey is a prolific writer. The publication known as "Harvey's Weekly" is to be discontinued when the colonel goes to London in order that he may not be held responsible, as publishers sometimes are, for the views of his subordinates.

Harvey has doubtless been picked for the place because there is not in the United States another man who is more opposed to the Wilsonian peace program than that same Col. Harvey. It will be difficult for Harvey to maintain the discreet silence or the diplomatic sagacity of public speech for which our ministers to England are usually noted. If he kicks over some kettle of fish it will not surprise anybody who has known him.

PROF. EINSTEIN

Surely the United States will extend a most cordial welcome to Prof. Albert Einstein, who comes to this country to aid the Zionist movement. The professor has cast the scientists of the world into a maze of conjecture over his hypothesis of universal relativity under which he holds that if the mechanism of the celestial bodies were removed, space and time would also disappear, whereas scientists up to the present held that if all else disappeared, space and time would remain.

Whether the professor's theory be sustained by scientific demonstration or whether it shall be eventually rejected, will not affect this busy world in the slightest degree—not half so much as the variation of the geometric parallax which does not seem to cause any commotion or inconvenience among the inhabitants of our planet.

"COUSIN" EVERETT

Cousin Everett Harding, who posed as a relative of President Harding from the time the latter came into the arena in the Chicago convention, is one of those consciousness fakers who have unlimited gall and who can take advantage of an opportunity to impose upon the gullible. Needless to say, this confidence man is in no way connected with the president, and the wonder is, that he was not exposed before he had time to swindle so many people. The fact that he will spend several years in a federal penitentiary will not help those whom he victimized.

First street, if it gets into the way, ought to have a phonograph record of some of the language that it has inspired to go along with the pictures to make them realistic.

In these days we find it too easy to sneer at men in the service of the state," says Governor Cox. What a remedy, governor—different men?

The Westford Republican League has been giving a weekly show supporting some of the G.O.P. reformers on Beacon Hill.

The newspaper man continues to say that political life in this country was never so bad as it is now. New York World will be the last to admit that.

With the prices of raw materials lower and in a majority of cases the cost of labor also, there is greater encouragement to the manufacturer and the consumer to drop the retarding policy and go full steam ahead.

The revision of the budget—especially of taxation—must be effected in some months. Some changes will open on April 11 and it is expected that this question will be taken up soon after. There is very considerable dissatisfaction of the present system of excess profits tax, surtaxes and other features that tend to do more than to do for the public welfare. It is to be submitted to the legislature in favor of a sales tax, a measure of relief to consumers in place for a part of these taxes. The House of Commons has passed a bill with this end in view and if it can get favor at Washington it may bring the country to a speedy solution of this present problem.

The bill is being carried through the Senate by Senator Key Pittman, who is a strong advocate of a sales tax. The House of Representatives has passed a bill with this end in view and if it can get favor at Washington it may bring the country to a speedy solution of this present problem.

The procedure will be to have a joint committee of the two houses get a

No Settle Animal

The story that made millions laugh
that one which includes "Thunder that last no sht animal"—has we think, a pretty good running mate in the following more recent one. A countryman was standing on a pier where the day's catch was being landed. Presently a swordfish of monstrous size was hoisted up, and the old fellow stared at it in wonder
and amazement. He positively could not believe his senses, and when at last he recovered himself sufficiently to make a speech it was only to explain: "The fish caught him himself, and the fisherman who caught him is a darn harmless old fellow."

An Expensive Dinner

The favorite avocation of a well-known surgeon is his model farm near Chicago. It pays no profit except great pleasure. He is hospitable, always asking friends to dinner. One Sunday about noon unexpected guests arrived. His wife was aghast. "My dear," she said, "we haven't a thing to give them." "O, anything will do," said the doctor. So the lady of the house consulted the cook. "What about the crate of pigeons out in the back?" asked the cook. "How many are there?" asked the lady. "About 200," was the answer. "Well, wring
their necks and fix them up." Dinner was served and the large platter of sparks was brought to the table.
"What's this?" exclaimed the doctor.
"Now, Fred, just go ahead and serve," said his wife. "But what are these?" he expostulated. "Just some pigeons we found in the barn," he answered. "My heavens!" he exclaimed. "Those pigeons cost $25 apiece!"

A Song
(Copyright, 1921, The Lowell Sun)
If I made a song of laughter
And delight
It would follow after Starry night;
If my lyric glowed with Maytime
And the words
Were as joyous as the playtime
Of the birds;
If my song were like a garden
Fresh and fair,
Or a forest bough when Birds still sing in dances
Mid the trees,
And the spell of little romance
On the breeze;

If my song were true, sweeter
Than the lays
Of all, lost in motor,
Carol praises
I should hide fond eadear
On the shelf
For no song could rival, ever.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

"It is an early spring." You hear that remark frequently. You also often hear people expressing opinions to how much in advance of the usual schedule the balmy days that start vegetation into life are in arriving. The lilac bushes are in covered with foliage, the buds on the trees have given them a distinct coloring of the springtime, early rose bushes have their leaves well out, even in some places are almost as green as in mid-June. It is my guess that the reason is about ten days ahead of time. Others will doubtless guess differently. Most of us probably do not remember backward farther
than one or two springs. Last year at this time we were just emerging from the blizzard zone. The snow 100 miles north of Lowell still lay banked
several feet deep, and the winds
sweeping down over the frozen surfaces brought an Arctic chill. Today there is comparatively little snow in the north. That should help some to ward continued days of warmth and sunshine. Two years ago about the middle of April the boys of the Yankee Division had their farewell parade through the streets of Boston. It was almost a midwinter day. People sat on the grandstands wrapped in rugs, robes and fur coats and shivered. The memory of the day, for those who saw the great spectacle, is one of acute discomfort with a seemingly endless blurred line of marching men in black as background. Oldest inhabitants will tell you of the cold April 19 of 46 years ago. It was the 100th anniversary of the battle of Lexington. A big celebration had been planned at the scene of the battle. Announcements reasonably comfortable whether the committee in charge had brought up the tent in the old fashion method for serving a banquet considered if S. Head was there. Cold made the banquet a failure.

In these days we find it too easy to sneer at men in the service of the state," says Governor Cox. What a remedy, governor—different men?

The Westford Republican League has been giving a weekly show supporting some of the G.O.P. reformers on Beacon Hill.

The newspaper man continues to say that political life in this country was never so bad as it is now. New York World will be the last to admit that.

With the prices of raw materials lower and in a majority of cases the cost of labor also, there is greater encouragement to the manufacturer and the consumer to drop the retarding policy and go full steam ahead.

The revision of the budget—especially of taxation—must be effected in some months. Some changes will open on April 11 and it is expected that this question will be taken up soon after. There is very considerable dissatisfaction of the present system of excess profits tax, surtaxes and other features that tend to do more than to do for the public welfare. It is to be submitted to the legislature in favor of a sales tax, a measure of relief to consumers in place for a part of these taxes. The House of Commons has passed a bill with this end in view and if it can get favor at Washington it may bring the country to a speedy solution of this present problem.

The bill is being carried through the Senate by Senator Key Pittman, who is a strong advocate of a sales tax. The House of Repre-

"IN THE SPRING A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY—" TURNS TO THE SAME OLD GAMES!

Sailing sailboats is too quiet and slow for a steady diet. But the girls like it. And all of us men—well, spring demands at least a little romance. Besides, sailboats, in moderation, aren't so "sissie," now are they?

No chicken grips—the last full fist! Ah-hi! The great national sport as played on sandlots, always and forever, is tree-climbing. It causes bird mothers and boy mothers great mental anguish.

Identifying bird nests is simply a fine excuse for tree-climbing. It causes bird mothers and boy mothers great mental anguish.

The question is: "Is it on the line or outside?" There are always two opinions and the arbitrator often gets a hickory.

But after all, there's no spring sport that takes the place of fishing—no rods or polished rods, just a good, strong pole with the knots whetted on. Fanny, too, how mothers are always willing to try that two-inch sunfish.

SEEK TO END BIG STRIKE

STOCK MARKET

LONDON, April 5.—Informal negotiations between the government and leaders of the miners' union, relative to a settlement on the coal strike, have begun, says the Daily Sketch, through an intermediary who was persona grata with both sides.

The Daily Mail hints that Baron Rankin Askwith, who has appeared as arbitrator in many disputes, may be this intermediary.

There were indications today that an agreement might not be reached at tomorrow's joint meeting of the miners' union, the National Union of Railwaymen and the Transport Workers' union. If an immediate strike should be proposed, certain sections of the transport workers' organization, notably dockworkers, will press strongly for a resumption of negotiations. Benjamin Tillett, member of the house of commons and leader of the dockworkers, intimated he would advise that course at a meeting of the Transport Workers' union today.

When the house of commons met today, Premier Lloyd George was prepared to make a statement on the coal crisis and it was expected that debate would follow. The Daily Graphite declared that it was probable the government would offer to postpone relinquishing control of the mines for a month, and asserted that faint hopes of peace might be seen in this direction.

The Daily Herald, organ of labor, asserts that large numbers of troops are being brought back to England from Ireland, and a cable despatch to Reuter's Limited, states that an infantry battalion which has reached there from Mesopotamia, has been ordered to England, presumably in connection with the crisis.

Desperate efforts continue to save more mines from being flooded. Students at Birmingham university have volunteered to run pumps in mines throughout that district, while Baron Bledisloe and his son are operating pumps in their colliery at Lydney.

For three hours today 400 delegates of the National Transport Workers' Federation debated the strike question without reaching a decision and adjourned until tomorrow. Meanwhile the union's executive board continued discussion of the question.

Fight To a Finish

There has been no deviation from the uncompromising "fight to the finish" attitude which apparently has been taken by the three parties to the controversy—the miners, the owners and the government. From representatives of each there have been declarations of a willingness to make any reasonable concessions in order to avert a general industrial stupor, but no one has volunteered to take that step toward a resumption of negotiations.

At the meeting of the transport delegates it was noticeable that John R. Clynes, chairman of the parliamentary labor party, and other speakers similarly regarded as moderates failed to evoke the same measure of applause and enthusiasm accorded to other speakers, known to have leanings toward direct action.

The delegates were unmistakably in bad humor and apparently there was little to warrant hopes of an amicable outcome of tomorrow's meetings of the transport delegates and the national union of railway men.

TWO MEN CLAIM DOG OWNERSHIP

Harry E. Hunter and Harry A. Cady, both of Tyngsboro, were prepared to stage a legal battle for the possession of a Scottie collie dog, this morning, at the police court. Last night Hunter came to headquarters, claiming that his dog was in the possession of Cady. This morning Cady brought in the animal, which matched the description given by Hunter. But now came Cady, who avowed and testified that he had the dog presented to him by his brother-in-law, a resident of Nashua, N. H., during the fall of 1919. Soon afterward, he declared, the canine vanished and returned to his abode only a few days ago. And now comes Hunter, bringing with him a man who says he raised the dog, and another man who says he sold the animal to Hunter for $100. The argument raged through the morning, but as the dog made much of the Hunter family, and in view of the evidence of the man who says he raised the animal and that he could "tell him out of twenty," it was stated that an agreement was finally reached, whereby Hunter was granted possession of the animal.

CLEVELAND CARMEN'S CONCESSION REJECTED

CLEVELAND, April 5.—Offers by officials of the street carmen's union to accept wage reductions of three, five and finally six cents an hour for 26 conductors and motormen at the expiration of the present wage agreement, May 1, were rejected by J. Stanley, president of the Cleveland Railway company, at a conference late yesterday. This is equivalent to about 10 per cent.

President Stanley said he would stand firm on his demand for a reduction of 10 and 15 cents an hour or 26 per cent from the present wages of 70 and 75 cents. Other demands of the company, which included an "open shop" and abolition of wartime emergency clauses in this year's contract, were not discussed.

Keenan Had Drink Aboard

woodchopper came down from the fastnesses of New Hampshire with he says, well over $100. Last evening he complained at the police station that he had been "grifted" of the coins. Melinda's woman, when arrested in consequence of Keenan's story, said that Keenan presented her with $10 to keep for him. Later, the old Indian, he said, heard strange sounds in the bather's room, and, peering in, discovered his employer in process of investigating the contents of Keenan's pockets. Keenan stoutly maintained the falsity of this assertion, and both sides, in regard to this momentous adventure, to represent their respective sides. Mather was prepared to testify today that a deposit under the name of D. McNamee was made at a local bank yesterday. She was booked on charges of brawling with a woman, and reduced to the indignity of the trading American Telephone and Telegraph Co. from yesterday's date, SWIFT & CO.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 5.—Initial dealings in the stock market today were again irregular and confusing. On the constructive side Studebaker was most prominent, rising a point in the first few transactions and soon extending its lead to 1%, General Asphalt and Houston Oil also were strong, and the American Wool, International, and Standard Oil stocks. Unsatisfactory conditions in Holland probably accounted for the two-point reaction in Royal Dutch. Dressed Steel Car, Kelly Wheel, Atlantic Gulf also were reactionary. Mexican Petroleum, which had its day's most erratic feature, had a large drop in the first of the outset, but soon strengthened.

Aside from rails, in which dealings were nominal, and Atlantic Gulf, where further severe pressure was evident, the market forged steadily ahead during the active forenoon. Money was the propelling factor, and, with the exception of the first, the lowest initial rate in more than two months. Oil stocks, motors and rubbers gained 1 to 3 points, steels, equipments and coppers 1 to 2, and specialties of diverse types, notably American Wool, Central Leather, International Paper, Beet Sugar, and Sears, Roebuck, to almost 3 points. Exchange on London recovered part of yesterday's reversal.

Business slackened at mid-day, but the market retained its advantage despite considerable profit-taking. The cheaper oils and motors were in demand at 10-cent advances. Motor accessories, tobacco and food shares made slight gains.

Call money's decline to 5½ per cent later occasioned further short covering among leaders, but a few stocks, especially Sunnata Tobacco and Atlantic Gulf, were heavy. The closing was easy.

HELD ANNUAL BANQUET

Meeting Last Evening By Naturalization Committee of French Residents

The annual banquet of the Permanent Naturalization Committee of the French-speaking people of this city took place last evening in the assembly hall of the C.M.A.C. in Pawtucket street. There were about 125 men and women present at the festivities, and all listened attentively to the addresses on "Americanization" which were delivered by prominent speakers.

In the early part of the evening, a beautiful dinner was served and later, post-prandial exercises were held with Timothy Roy, president of the committee, acting as toastmaster. The speakers were Very Rev. E. J. Turotte, O.M.I., Rev. J. B. Lubost, Rev. Joseph Denis, O.M.I., Maximilian Rep. Harry Achille School Commissioner, Albert Belanger, Assistant Officer Camille Rousseau, Assessor Albert J. Blazon, Lawyer Henri V. Charbonneau, L. P. Turotte and Narcisse Gobois, and all spoke along the same line, "Americanization."

Maxime Lapine, secretary-treasurer of the committee, gave a lengthy report of the doings of the committee during the past year. He told of the donations received from the various foundations to carry on the work of naturalization, and also pointed out the classes of naturalization that were held during the winter months in the quarters of Club Citoyens-Americalais in Middle street. He also gave figures showing the number of French-speaking people naturalized during the year and those whose names were placed on the check list, during the work of the committee during the past year, was by far greater than in any other previous year.

The committee is composed of three representatives from the following organizations: C.M.A.C., Club Citoyens-Americalais, Centralville Social club, Pawtucket Social club and the South Lowell Improvement Association. The officers of the committee are Timothy Roy, president; David Parthenais, vice-president, and Maxime Lapine, secretary-treasurer.

TEXTILE BUSINESS

POOR IN CANADA

Francis X. Monette, superintendent of the Tremont & Suffolk hosier, returned last night from a pleasant week's trip to Hamilton, Ont., where he renewed old acquaintances. For a number of years, Mr. Monette was superintendent of the Canadian Knitting Co. at Hamilton, leaving his position to accept the superintendence of the local mill. Mr. Monette reports that the industries of Hamilton are just beginning to feel the industrial crisis that has been prevailing in this country for several months. He said most of the hosiers in the Canadian city are operating three and four days a week, while the Canadian Cotton company, the largest textile mill in Hamilton, shut down indefinitely yesterday, throwing several thousand people out of employment.

OUIMET TO GO

WITH U. S. TEAM

BOSTON, April 5.—America's amateur golfing invasion of England next month gained strength today with the announcement by Francis Ouimet of Ouimet are various times national open, national amateur and French amateur champion, that he would go across. Business considerations which had bound him previously were removed when his employers added their wish to that of Captain Bill Foxworth of the American team that Ouimet join the venture. It will not be Ouimet's first attempt to gain the British classic honors, as, after his famous victory over the British masters Nardon and Ray in the play off of the triple C in the American open championship of 1915, he went to England in 1914, and lost in the second round. He is said to be on his best game at present.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

M. E. CONFERENCE

NASHUA, N.H., April 5.—Rev. Dr. Ernest G. Richardson presided at the annual session of the New Hampshire Methodist Episcopal conference which met in the Methodist church here. After the organization preliminary work which occupied most of the afternoon, the program was given over to the Epworth League, which held an anniversary service. The speakers listed for this meeting were Rev. Charles E. Guthrie, general secretary of the league, and Rev. Dr. Bert E. Smith, general superintendent of the adults' department of the Sunday school.

The business of the convention is expected to include a report from the committee of morals and conference, especially to present day dancing, other social customs and dress.

HORSES TRANSPORTATION

The two department horses which have been stationed at the Lawrence street house for some time past, but which are not long able to perform active duty service in a satisfactory manner, will be turned over to the street department, Commissioner John F. Salmon said today. Thus the commissioner disposes of hundreds of applications for the horses and settles once and for all the question as to who is to get them. A motorized pump of about 1000 will be sent to the Lawrence street house from the Central street house, and the apparatus there will be replaced by a piece from the High street house. The new triple combination pump will be stationed at the High street house permanently.

ACCIDENT BOARD HEARING

A hearing on the petition of Charles McGuire for compensation under the workmen's compensation act for injuries alleged to have been sustained last summer while he was employed by the street department will be held at 10 a.m. Monday, April 5. The hearing will be conducted by the industrial accident board.

Cousins Give Testimony

that her cousin should go to see a lawyer, and that he replied he would only laugh at him. She claimed that he said he "would hold it all by throwing himself in front of a switcher." The witness testified to her close relations with McKeown and that he called her "Chatterbox" and she had called him "red-head" for many years.

About Old Times
George H. Wiley of Malden, hardware salesman for a Boston firm, was the first witness of the morning. He is a cousin of Mr. McKeown. He said that one day in 1919 the deceased came into the store where he worked and said he wanted to talk about old times.

"I asked him why he was so 'blunt,'" said the witness.

The reply it was testified, was: "I have got into trouble with a woman."

McKeown, the witness continued, had wanted to go to Australia to hide himself.

Margaret J. Irwin of Somerville, another cousin, was the next witness. She said that one day in 1916 she saw McKeown passing by her house with a woman and that she went out and touched him on the shoulder and said: "Where are you going Bob?"

He said witness asserted, that he was going to see a Mrs. Gallagher, and then introduced the woman with him as "Miss Taylor." She said that McKeown then spoke of going to Australia.

Cross-examined by Mr. Qua, the witness said she had only seen McKeown three or four times since 1912 when her mother died.

Henry L. V. Plauch, another cousin of the deceased told of meeting McKeown on Essex street in Lawrence. She said that he seemed surprised to see her; that it was raining and he took her umbrella and carried it for her while they went shopping together. She said her cousin helped her make purchases and he paid for all of them. He refused an invitation, she said, to go to her home, but said he would come the following Sunday, but didn't.

Tells of Meeting McKeown

Henry L. V. Plauch, of Somerville, travelling salesman, husband of Mrs. Mae M. Plauch, told of meeting McKeown near his residence in Lowell. He said that deceased said he had bought $3000 worth of Liberty bonds through the railroad.

He said he did not think it strange that a switchman on the railroad should buy so extensively of bonds, because they could be bought on the installment plan.

Sabine Lalonde, of Lowell, a widow, cousin of the deceased, said that McKeown took his meals at her house previous to the time that the Taylors came to the city. She said that previous to their arrival she had hired store from her cousin at the corner of Main and Lincoln streets. She said that Mr. Taylor and McKeown came to the store and she was ordered to vacate the premises. She said that Taylor soon after moved into the store.

Says There Was No Competition

Cross-examined by Mr. Qua, the witness denied that there was any competition between a store she later opened at 91 Main street and the Taylor store. She said she had not spoken to her cousin for eight or nine years.

The contestants at this point rested their case, and Mrs. Isabelle Taylor, beneficiary under the will, was called to the stand. Examined by Mr. Qua, she told of her coming from England, where she was born, to Lowell.

Witness said she was introduced to McKeown when she was crossing the railroad tracks where he was a switchman.

Nine years ago, she said, McKeown came to live at her house. Her husband made the arrangements. McKeown, witness said, bought the house she lived in and made additions to it. She said McKeown asked her if she would not like to have a larger kitchen, and that she answered "yes," and he built one.

The witness said that McKeown said a number of times that he wanted to live with her family. That he had some property and that it would be given to the witness when he died if she "took good care of him."

Fond of Children

The witness said McKeown was always friendly with all the members of the family and was very fond of the children.

Mrs. Taylor told of the purchase of two automobiles at different times. She said that she paid $250 for each for the last one bought. She said that she had been to the Brockton fair and automobile show with McKeown.

She denied that she had been away from home overnight when away in company with McKeown. She said that the only time she went auto riding alone with McKeown was when a visit was made to his mother's grave in a Woburn cemetery.

The witness denied that McKeown had ever given her any money or that she had ever asked him for any. She said that he did not pay any board, and neither did she pay any rent for living in his house.

Mrs. Taylor told of the circumstances connected with giving instructions to Attorney Murphy as to the making of the will by McKeown. She stated that McKeown said that he had earned all of his money himself and that he didn't want his relatives to have any of it; that he had not seen any of them for four years.

Didn't Want Trouble

The witness stated that McKeown wanted to leave his property to her in such a way that his relatives could not cause any trouble, and that he told Attorney Murphy so. She said that McKeown instructed the attorney to draw an order so that her husband could obtain $500 in Liberty bonds from a savings bank.

The witness said that during all of the time that McKeown lived at her house none of his relatives had visited him there.

Mrs. Taylor denied that either she or her husband ever did anything to influence McKeown in making his will.

The witness denied that there had been any improper relations between herself and McKeown.

Cross-examined by Attorney Counselor, Mrs. Taylor said she became acquainted with McKeown on the day of her first arrival in Lowell.

The witness said that when McKeown came to live at her home it was understood that he should be boarded and have his laundry and room cared for and that this should be in return for $12 a month rent that she was not required to pay.

Mrs. Taylor said that she had received $500 in Liberty bonds and $500 in cash from McKeown in payment for her care of him. She admitted that he had only been sick in bed about one week.

DISORDER IN STRIKE SURE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

Police Quell Fights of Building Workers in Boston—Ten Men Arrested

BOSTON, April 5.—The first violence connected with the building trades strike occurred yesterday afternoon, when strike sympathizers endeavored to assault men at work on the addition to the National Shawmut Bank building.

Ten men, all building trades laborers out on strike, were arrested, and two others, who had been at work on the building, were injured in a series of fights and unless which keyed up the banking district to a high pitch of excitement about 4:30. During one of the fights Traffic Officer Waldron D. Oster was struck twice in the head, when he was surrounded by a group of strike sympathizers, while attempting to arrest one of them.

"I asked him why he was so 'blunt,'" said the witness.

The reply it was testified, was: "I have got into trouble with a woman."

McKeown, the witness continued, had wanted to go to Australia to hide himself.

Margaret J. Irwin of Somerville, another cousin, was the next witness. She said that one day in 1916 she saw McKeown passing by her house with a woman and that she went out and touched him on the shoulder and said: "Where are you going Bob?"

He said witness asserted, that he was going to see a Mrs. Gallagher, and then introduced the woman with him as "Miss Taylor." She said that McKeown then spoke of going to Australia.

Shortly before 4 o'clock the police received a "th" that large groups of strike sympathizers were gathering to "rush" the men working on several buildings as they were leaving their work. Extra police were sent to guard the buildings and to protect the employees.

The police had no sooner reached their posts than strike sympathizers began to gather. The officers kept the men moving for a while and then the situation became so difficult that a riot call was sent in.

WISHED TO KNOW WHY

The witness said her cousin came to her house alone and she asked him why he had introduced "Mrs. Taylor" as "Miss Taylor." She said that McKeown then spoke of going to Australia.

Cross-examined by Mr. Qua, the witness said she had only seen McKeown three or four times since 1912 when her mother died.

LOWELL MAN WINS HIKE

John Daly, However, Is Robbed of Victory by a Technicality

A Lowell man defeated officers of the French and Italian armies, together with many athletes of those nationalities, to be robbed by a technicality of the victory, when John W. Daly of this city, led the field in a 48-mile, go-as-you-please walking race from Aix, France, to Marseilles, and returned. Daly, well known in this city, tells of the experience in a letter to Count Officer McCann, also a noted athlete here at one time. Daly describes how he "tricked them into challenging him to enter the race. The contestants ranged from 14-year-old boys to elders 69 years of age. After the Lowell athlete had outstripped all, he discovered that he had overlooked something in connection with registering, and they disqualified him. This is Daly's second visit to France, for he was there during the war, doing army welfare work. Since returning to the continent, he has tramped through Austria, Germany, Italy, France, Ireland, Switzerland, and has even rambled in Africa. He has walked at the lowest ten miles a day, has on some days done twenty, and on one occasion forty miles. He estimates his total pedestrian ramblings since he left the United States on this trip as amounting to 2000 miles covered on foot. He has climbed the Alps on many occasions, often tiring out the professional guides so that they have been left behind. He describes the results upon his health as surprising.

DENBY FINDS FLEET IN FINE SHAPE

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Upon setting ashore from the destroyer Pruitt at the Washington navy yard yesterday after a two weeks' tour of inspection of the fleet and navy establishments in Cuba, Haiti and Dominican republic, Secretary of the Navy Denby said that the Atlantic fleet is in fine shape and I was wonderfully impressed with its splendid condition.

The secretary came home in record time, the destroyer making the 1600-mile non-stop run from the Dominican republic to a 25-knot clip, in 55 hours.

Mr. Denby said he made a careful study of the situation in Haiti and found the marching posts were conducted with a spirit of cordiality existing between the natives and the "devil dogs." He had not changed his conviction that the 1918 building program should be completed, he said.

YOUNGSTERS LURED BY CALL OF THE ROAD

The wanderlust has hit the youngsters! Five lads from Roxbury, Mass., were recruited to local police headquarters last evening, after they had made their way to this city in one fashion or another, driven by the call of the road that gets a boy in springtime. Two of the youngsters were 15 years of age, two 16, and one 19. Their parents were notified, and two fathers immediately started Lowellwards to bring back the prodigals. Another father sent his son's fare home by telegraph. The others will be shipped home by the police. Local young ones are not free from the fever. It was shown, when the Lawrence police telephoned to headquarters that they had picked up a 14-year-old and a 15-year-old from this city last evening. One lad resides on West Fourth street, and the other is a resident of Lakeview avenue. The parents have been notified, and the wandering sons will undergo a session in the woodshed.

DIED SUDDENLY

W. M. Lowney, Candy Man, Dies at Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 5.—Walter M. Lowney of Boston, widely known candy manufacturer, died suddenly at a hotel here last night of heart disease. He was 65 years old. The body will be taken to Boston to-day.

Mr. Lowney recently had not been in the best of health. He came here with his wife last Friday.

HUNT DAY FOR FIREMEN

A brush fire, which threatened the Gagnon property in Crystal street, South Lowell, was responsible for the sounding of an alarm from box 24 shortly after 12.30 o'clock this afternoon. The fire was overcome before any great damage was done. At 9.30 o'clock there was still smoke rising from the cellar of 168 High street, but which proved to be smoke issuing from the furnace. At 10.55 o'clock a telephone alarm summoned a portion of the department to the rear of the Gillespie company in Middlesex street for a grass fire, and at 11.55 o'clock members of Hose 12 were given a wild goose chase to the Aiken street bridge.
